

Platform Hurlled To Orbit

Tracking Network To Be Aided By Double Payload

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A Titan 3A rocket carrying two satellites flung its third stage into orbit as a flying launch platform today to trigger a series of intended orbit-shifting space acrobatics.

The 124-foot-tall booster blazed away from Cape Kennedy. The satellites were to be released at 2:24 p.m. after the third stage, called a transtage, fired its engines for a third time, each time changing orbit.

The Air Force reported 13 minutes after the 10 a.m. (EST) launching that the transtage had fired successfully the first time and propelled itself into a circular orbit 115 miles high. Packed in its nose were an 80-pound experimental communications satellite and a 75-pound sphere designed to help calibrate radars and radio systems in America's worldwide satellite tracking network.

After one 90-minute circuit of the globe in the initial orbit, the transtage was to re-start its engines and swing into an elliptical path ranging from 115 to 1,725 miles high.

When the transtage reached the high point of the egg-shaped orbit the second time, planned for 4 hours 24 minutes after launching, a third ignition was to circularize the course at 1,725 miles and the two satellites were to be kicked free.

The communications satellite carried a small motor which was to ignite to push it into a course reaching out to more than 11,000 miles. The satellite was to check long-life materials and techniques for future military communications satellites.

After 6 hours 54 minutes of flight, the transtage was to attempt an unprecedented fourth orbit to again shift its orbit to one ranging from 1,725 miles to 2,300 miles. The Air Force gave this experiment a 50-50 chance of success.

On Feb. 11, another Titan 3A transtage achieved the first triple firing in space.

The launching was the fourth and last planned for Titan 3A, which will serve as the upper three stages for a powerful Titan 3C rocket being developed by the Air Force for a variety of manned and unmanned military missions. The first test firing of the 3C is scheduled here in June.

The maneuverability of the transtage will be essential for military flights which will require orbit-shifting, such as manned reconnaissance, satellite interception or space rescue.

Massey's Bond Is Okayed By Court

Charley Massey, Lebanon, found guilty Tuesday by a Circuit Court jury on a no funds check charge, has been released on $4,000 bail bond pending motion for a new trial.

Judge Frank W. Hayes, at the conclusion of the trial, declined to accept the bond offered by Massey. But the bond was later approved by the court and Massey was released.

The jury set his punishment at $500 and a six-month jail term. He was granted 30 days in which to file a motion for a new trial.

Col. Francisco Caamaño Deno, leader of the rebels, had warned Wednesday that any U.S. troops entering the insurgent zone would be fired upon as violators of the new cease-fire agreement negotiated by the peace commission of the Organization of American States.

New Dominican Fighting After US Jeep Blunder

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — A U.S. Marine was killed today, two were wounded and two reported captured in a fight with rebel forces in Santo Domingo.

A U.S. military spokesman confirmed the death of the Marine and the two wounded but said he knew nothing of any Americans being captured.

The spokesman said the Marines were in a patrol that took a wrong turn and headed into insurgent territory instead of back to its own base.

A rebel spokesman said two captured Marines were being questioned. There was no immediate information on what happened to the two wounded Americans.

New Water Storage Tank Link-Up Near

Works Board Approves Bids On New Equipment

A new million-gallon storage tank south of Sedalia should be connected to the city's water system and in operation by the latter part of next week, the Board of Public Works was told Wednesday night at their monthly meeting.

L. C. (Red) Heuerman, water plant superintendent, and Herbert Taylor, department manager, reported workmen are completing exterior painting on the tank and after final inspection by consulting engineers Black & Veatch, sterilizing and filling, the tank will be ready for use. A Black & Veatch inspection of the tank's interior revealed rust traces, the board was informed, and the inside was re-sandblasted and a new wash coat applied. Some problems are still being encountered in control equipment, Heuerman said, but these difficulties are being dealt with by the contractor.

A low bid of $4,729.45 for a heavy-duty two-ton truck was approved from the Bryant Motor Company. The truck is to be an eight-cylinder model equipped with an 18-foot power lift platform and a road runner trailer axle.

Other bids submitted were: Mike O'Connor Company, $4,747.56; Thompson-Greer Motor Company, $4,850.08; Adams Truck & Tractor Co., $5,323.

The board also approved purchase of a new $2,500 self-propelled street compactor known as a Vibropac. Purchase of the new piece of equipment was made after manager Taylor reported the department would be unable to obtain a used compactor as authorized by the board last month.

Relocation of water mains along West Main Street in connection with that phase of the city's highway Urban Plan is progressing well under the contract. (Please turn to Page 12, Col. 6)

Gas Service Rebate For Sedalians

Small Refunds Expected To Be Made In Mid-Year

Sedalians as natural gas customers of the Missouri Public Service Company will share in a rebate made by the Cities Service Gas Company to its 70 utility customers.

Richard C. Green, president of the Missouri Public Service Company, said a natural gas rate case settled in Washington Wednesday will result in refunds to MPS customers in 11 towns. These include Sedalia, Nevada, Deerfield, Clinton, Lexington, Platte City, Tracy, Henrietta, Weston, Richmond and Marshall.

The company serves about 20,000 gas customers in these towns.

The Federal Power Commission in Washington said late today no refunds to gas users has been ordered.

Green said the Missouri Public Service Company would begin making the refunds late this summer and the preliminary estimate indicates most gas users would receive about $1.80.

The Federal Power Commission Wednesday ordered the Cities Service Gas Company to make a refund of $2,918,000 to 70 distribution utilities receiving their gas supply from Cities Service—including MPS. Cities Service increased its rate last year about 4.8 million dollars subject to FPC approval.

Since then conferences have gone on and the rate case settled Wednesday by the commission resulted in approval of an increase of $2 million based on rising costs. So the balance of the increase plus 6 per cent interest will have to be refunded.

The refund period dates from April 23, 1964.

Green said it will probably be June before the final order is drawn and approved by the FPC.

Sedalia Man Kills Himself With Rifle

A rural Sedalia man shot himself fatally shortly after 11 a.m. Thursday morning while parked in his automobile on the east side of the Wheel Inn Drive-In, Broadway and Limit.

Lloyd W. Goode, 55, Route 2, was pronounced dead by a former county coroner here, Dr. K. L. Holdren, who was summoned after police were unable to contact Dr. J. M. Rodeman, deputy coroner, Dr. Gordon Stauffacher, coroner, was out of town.

Dr. Holdren said Goode's death was due to a self-inflicted gunshot wound and the bullet pierced his heart.

Police found a single-shot .22 caliber rifle in the front seat with the victim. One spent cartridge was in the barrel of the weapon.

Jack Hawkins, operator of the drive-in, said Goode drove up in his car about 11 a.m., but did not place an order. His body was found slumped over in the front seat of the auto about 11:35 and police were summoned.

Hawkins said a curb employee seated in a chair near the Goode auto did not hear the shot.

Police said Goode's wife, Mrs. Mary Goode, is employed at the drive-in as a waitress inside.

He was born Sept. 14, 1909, at Florence, Mo., a son of the late Minor and Grace Baughman Goode. He was married in 1936 to Mary Adams, who survives.

Also surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Herbert (Coleene) Mittelhauser, Route 4; a son, Lloyd Gene Goode, Columbia; four sisters, Mrs. Willie Schilt, Ottumwa; Mrs. Ina Borne, Tulsa, Okla.; Mrs. Noma Croft, Clifton City; Mrs. Rita Michalkowsky, Florence; and a brother, Jesse Goode, Route 2. Preceding him in death were a sister, Mrs. Vida Tieman, and a brother, Roy.

The body was taken to the Gillespie Funeral Home. Arrangements are incomplete.

The Weather

Work to Begin July 1

City Urban Route Funds Approved

Land acquisition for right of way and highway improvement in Sedalia and Pettis County are included in a tentative construction and improvement program which received the approval of the Missouri State Highway Commission, the group reported today.

The program, costing a total of $149,072,000, extends over 820.8 miles in the state and is slated to begin July 1. Missouri's interstate, primary and urban highway systems are included in the plan.

Work in Pettis County includes: Route 52—13.1 miles bituminous mat surfacing from Henry County line east to Route 65; Route 750—0.1 mile grading and paving from present Route 65 south to the north city limits of Sedalia; Route 50—1.2 miles right of way acquisition. Sedalia, from east of the west city limits east to Rt. 65; Rt. 750—0.9 mile grading and paving. Sedalia, from the north city limits south on Ohio to Pacific.

Work in neighboring counties includes:

LAFAYETTE: Interstate 70—construction of rest area facilities at Concordia; Route 13—11.5 miles widening and resurfacing from Davis Creek to north of Route 50, including Johnson County.

JOHNSON: Route 13—13.8 miles widening and resurfacing from Warrensburg city limits to Henry County; Route 13—install traffic signal in Warrensburg at the junction of Gay Street.

HENRY: Route 13—11.2 miles paving from south of Route 7 to St. Clair County; Route 52—14.5 miles bituminous mat surfacing from St. Clair County to relocated Route 13; Route 13 spur—acquire balance of right of way for 4.2 mile project, in Clinton, along Ohio from Second to the Route 13 relocation.

BENTON: Route 52—12 miles bituminous mat surfacing from Route 65 east to Morgan Co.

SALINE-PETTIS: Route 65—nine miles right of way acquisition from Interstate Route 70 south to about seven and a half miles south of the Saline County line.

SALINE: Route 41—0.8 mile right of way acquisition both north and south of Salt Fork Creek; Route 240—7.8 miles widening and resurfacing from Route 41 to Slater.

BULLETINS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, by an overwhelming vote, gave final congressional approval today to the $700-million military money bill which President Johnson had tagged a test measure on his Viet Nam policy.

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri House finally agreed today on a proposal for a house of 168 members serving four year terms. The apportionment committee promised to start Monday trying to set up actual districts and hoped to have an acceptable bill ready for discussion by June 1.

Ann Landers Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: We aren't millionaires but we do have a considerable amount of money in our joint checking account. My husband has a habit of signing his name to checks and then he lets people fill in the amount.

For example, we had some stone masonry done last week and the man who did the work said he hadn't figured out the cost of the job yet. My husband wrote a check, signed it and said "Fill in the amount when you figure it."

When I told my husband this was dangerous he answered, "I trust people."

I believe the man is honest, but what if he lost the check and someone who wasn't honest picked it up? What can you suggest? — WIFE OF RECKLESS ROBERT.

Dear Wife: It's admirable to trust people, and Reckless Robert may never regret it. But it is foolish, for the reason you mentioned and for ANOTHER reason. In the same way that keys left in the ignition might tempt someone to steal a car, a signed check might tempt someone to write a larger check than he ought to write.

Dear Ann Landers: A group of us high school students composed some rules for teachers to follow. Please print them in your column.

Ten Commandments for Teachers

1. A teacher should be neat and appropriately dressed.
2. A teacher should not apply make-up, or comb her hair during class.
3. A teacher should not eat, drink or take medicine in front of students.
4. A teacher should avoid playing favorites.
5. A teacher should not be influenced too strongly by first impressions.
6. A teacher should give at least a day of notice on all tests.
7. A teacher should not manhandle students.
8. A teacher should strive for a happy medium between being too personal and too distant.
9. A teacher should not cause students to fear her.
10. A teacher should keep her temper and not raise her voice. Thank you — COMMITTEE FOR BETTER TEACHERS.

Dear Committee: I'll bet if the teachers were asked to compose Ten Commandments for students some of the same rules would appear on THEIR lists—for example: Rules, 1, 2, 3, 5, 9 and 10.

Your best rule is Number 4. Many teachers would do well to keep this in mind.

As to rule Number 7, I would like to add a—word of my own. In New Jersey several months ago the governor signed a "Hit the Kid Back" bill which gives teachers the right to protect themselves in the class room. Most high school kids these days are bigger than the teachers. It's the teachers who need protection against manhandling—not the kids.

Dear Ann Landers: I belong to a club that meets every other week. We play cards and the winners put half their winnings into a kitty which we donate to a worthy charity at the end of the year. The officers decide which charity gets the money.

A certain clique has been running the club for the past two years because they hold the offices. This clique has been voting that the money be given to THEIR pet charity and we resent it. Yesterday we had another election of officers. The president and vice president are sisters. The president's daughter-in-law is secretary and her cousin is the treasurer. The vice president's niece is sergeant-at-

Spy Dagger Is Replacing The Cloak

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK — (AP) — NBC's news department put a titillating title, "The Science of Spying," on Tuesday night's special program which doubtless caused many viewers to anticipate that a real man from U. N. C. L. E. or a James Bond type would describe his adventures in stealing the plans or breaking the top-secret code.

If so, they were quickly disabused by narrator John Chancellor who said the spying business has gone a long way since Mata Hari and that currently "the dagger is replacing the cloak."

After that, the program was primarily devoted to interviews about activities of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

Former CIA Director Allen Dulles defended the agency's work and expressed admiration for Soviet intelligence. He called its operation in Czechoslovakia "a classic," and said its Cuban work was "marvelous."

Our CIA differs in its operation, he said, because "as far as I know, we don't engage in assassination and kidnappings and things like that."

Chancellor to the contrary, there is still plenty of cloak wrapped around the CIA and it was not removed at all Tuesday night.

ABC-TV President Thomas W. Moore, responding to grumblings about public service and special programs sometimes being scheduled opposite each other by the networks, has suggested that, to avoid such conflicts, the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences set up a clearing house for such programs.

Rod Serling, academy president, immediately accepted the idea and said he would take it up with the other two networks.

arms. We know right now where the money is going AGAIN. Is this fair? — MUTINY IN THE RANKS.

Dear Ranks: Do the by-laws say relatives cannot hold office? If not—then it's fair.

Episcopal Stand On Civil Rights Is Strengthened

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP)—The west Missouri Diocese of the Episcopal Church wound up its two-day convention here Tuesday after passing a resolution strengthening its position on civil rights.

The resolution called on all church members to send letters and telegrams to congressmen supporting the right-to-vote legislation.

Rectors, vicars and other parish leaders were urged to "enlist our people to be alert for subtle discriminatory practices in housing, employment and education" affecting minority groups.

The resolution further urged vestries "to require of their building contractors that they not discriminate against any employment because of race or skin color or national origin."

Also approved was a resolution calling on government agencies to assist in family planning.

Also approved was a $115,000 capital funds campaign which includes a $200,000 conference center with the site yet to be

Break Historic Tradition

Inter-American Military Force Pact For Dominica

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Organization of American States made a historic break from tradition early today and voted to establish an inter-American military force in the Dominican Republic.

The force will include some of the approximately 20,000 U.S. Marines and paratroopers already patrolling the Dominican capital of Santo Domingo.

As other nations contribute to the joint force, part of the U.S. contingent will be withdrawn. Ellsworth Bunker, U.S. ambassador to the OAS, told the American nations. He said he was speaking on the authorization of President Johnson, who had been urging since last week that an inter-American military force be set up in the riot-torn Caribbean republic.

Paraguay and Venezuela announced they were ready to contribute military units to the new force. Costa Rica, which has no regular army, offered police units. Argentina and Brazil, it was indicated, also are considering sending military forces.

There was no indication on the total forces the other hemisphere nations might contribute, nor the date of their probable arrival in the Dominican Republic.

The vote was a departure from the OAS tradition of non-intervention in the Western Hemisphere. Never before had such a joint force of American nations been created formally to go into a country beset by internal turmoil, although various nations contributed military assistance during the Cuban missile crisis in the fall of 1962.

The purpose of the joint force, the OAS declared, is to establish "a climate of peace and conciliation permitting the functioning of democratic institutions" in the Dominican Republic.

The OAS action came on the heels of these U.S.-Dominican developments:

—U.S. government sources made public a list of 58 alleged Communists and Castroites who it said were involved in the Communist bid to take control of the Dominican Republic.

—A State Department spokesman, commenting on the reported installation of rebel Col. Francisco Caamaño Deno as president of the Dominican Republic, said the United States feels "there is no effective government at the present time" in the riot-torn Caribbean nation.

—President Johnson conferred at the White House with former Gov. Luis Munoz Marin of Puerto Rico, George E. Reedy, White House press secretary, said afterwards that Johnson and Munoz discussed the Dominican situation and Latin-American affairs in general.

—The number of U.S. troops in the Dominican Republic was put at 19,363 by the Defense Department. It said these included 12,439 Army men — mainly paratroopers from the 82nd Airborne Division — and 6,924 Marines. The total was 5,363 more than the 14,500 announced Sunday night by President Johnson.

WASHINGTON — The Defense Department has announced that one of the American paratroopers killed in the Dominican Republic was U.S. Army Pfc. Robert C. Waldron, Long Beach, Calif. (UPI Telephoto)

Jets Smash Complex For Cong Ammo

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Air Force jets smashed a North Vietnamese ammunition complex today and killed "spectacular results." A spokesman said four underground ammunition bunkers blew up after direct hits and four others were left burning.

On the political front, South Viet Nam's Armed Forces Council dissolved itself, ending 18 months of military control of the civilian government. The development strengthened Premier Phan Huy Quat's position.

A task force of transport planes continued to shuttle the 3,500 men of the U.S. Army's 173rd Airborne Brigade from Okinawa to South Viet Nam. Reports circulated that the landing of another large group of U.S. Marines was imminent.

In the raid north across the 17th Parallel, 25 F105 jet fighters-bombers dumped 80 tons of bombs on the Phu Van ammunition complex, 125 miles southwest of Hanoi.

A U.S. military spokesman said towering black clouds of smoke were rising from the area as the jet pilots broke off their 45-minute attack. All returned home safely.

Flying in the first day of perfect weather in almost a week, the Air Force pilots hit the eight ammunition bunkers and also destroyed five out of six buildings in the complex.

Rain and low clouds had hampered pilots on recent raids and forced cancellation of two strikes.

A U.S. military spokesman said three American servicemen were wounded Wednesday.

Two Army helicopter crewmen were hit during a government operation near Da Nang airbase, and an Air Force enlisted man was slightly wounded during a mission to apply defoliation spray along a road. All three were released after treatment.

The spokesman said Viet Cong guerrilla attacks in South Viet Nam continue to increase and "a rather substantial number were reported in the 24 hours ending Thursday morning."

The action started late Wednesday afternoon when Chief Sumter responded to a disturbance call in a trailer court at the southwest edge of Macon.

He found Mendenhall in his trailer, armed with a shotgun and a 22 pistol and threatening to kill anyone who tried to come in.

Three highway patrolmen arrived with tear gas equipment and other trailers were being cleared of their occupants when Mendenhall came out of his trailer, the shotgun in one hand and the pistol in the other — pointed at his head.

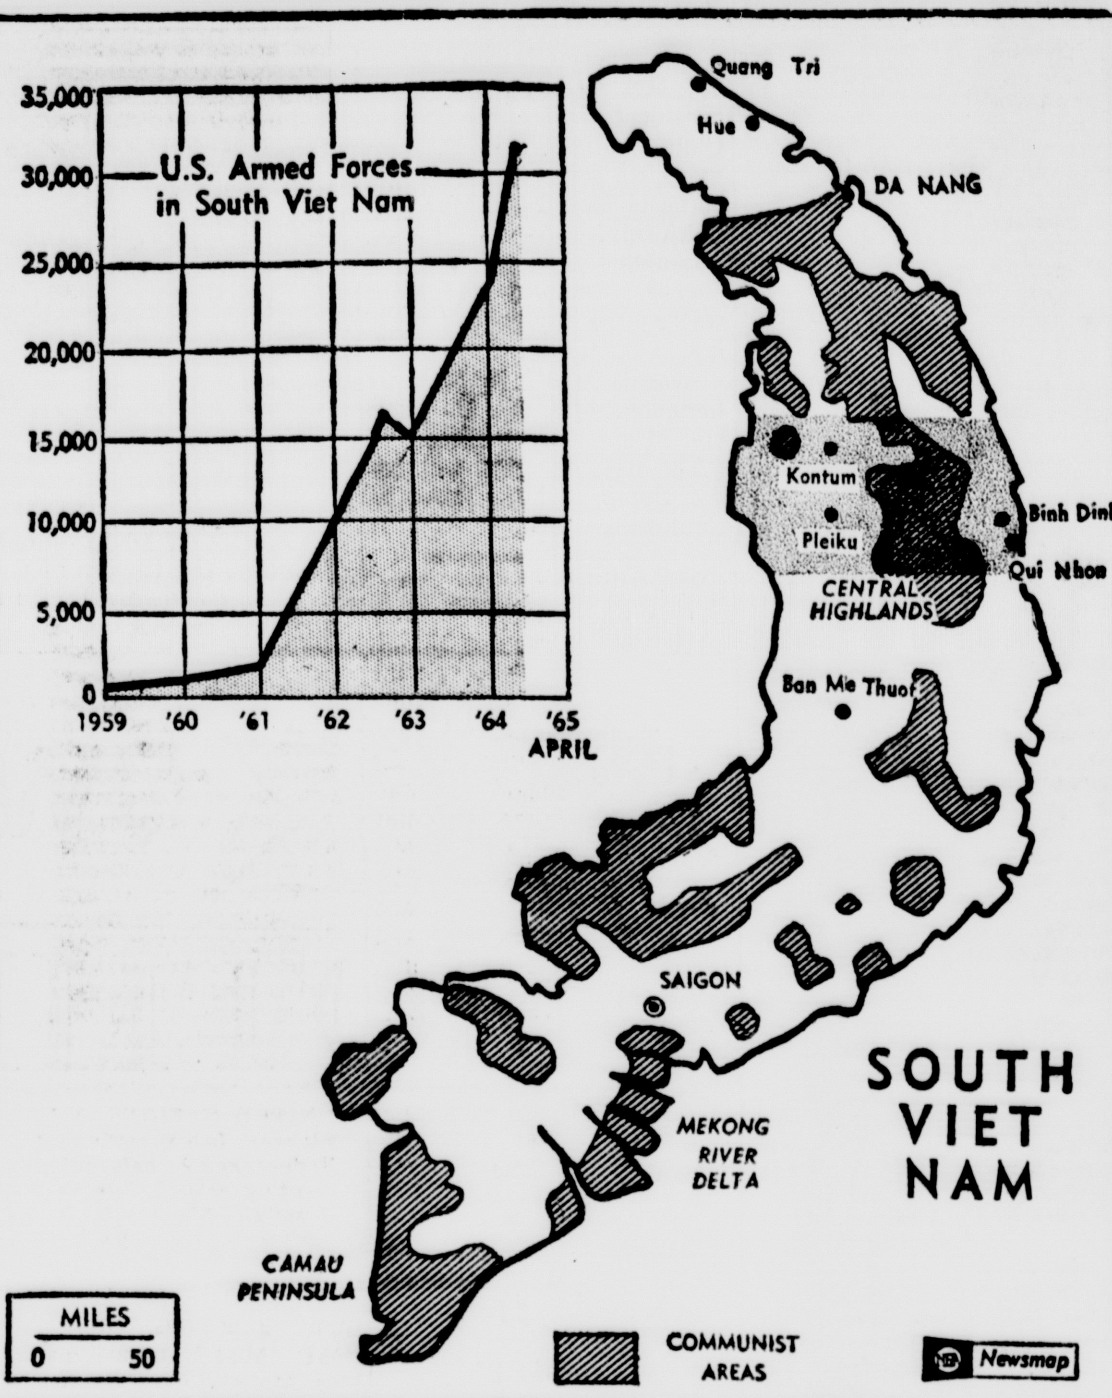

Striped Club Hears Opal O'Brian Talk

Following luncheon at Holiday Inn recently the Striped Club Extension Club heard Miss Opal O'Brian speak to extension groups at REA building.

Miss O'Brian, Pettis County extension home economist, spoke on "All the Time You Need." She also showed colored slides depicting correct home lighting.

Mrs. Buddy Williams was a guest.

A clothing lesson will be given at the May meeting at the home of Mrs. Buddy Williams.

CONFRONTATION AND ESCALATION—Diagonally shaded areas on Newsmap above are now considered under control of the Communist Viet Cong. However, the situation is so fluid that these areas vary from time to time. Panel of grained shading indicates the mountainous central area where the Red forces may launch an all-out ground attack to coincide with the imminent rainy season which would sharply reduce airplane and helicopter attacks against them. Objectives would include the plateau near Kontum, a vital highway and rice crop. Reds would hope to cut South Viet Nam in half as they did against France in 1946-54. Inset Newschart shows how American forces in South Viet Nam have increased since the comparatively few of 1959 to more than 30,000 today. U.S. forces include some 16,000 Army troops, 7,000 each from the Air Force and Marines and 1,000 Navy personnel. In addition, there are available 400,000 other men at key Pacific bases and aboard U.S. Navy ships.

Tends To Child And Is Killed In Auto Crash

CASSVILLE, Mo. (AP)—Mrs. William Townsend apparently leaned over to see about one of her four children and was killed Tuesday when she lost control of her car and it crashed into a culvert.

The four youngsters — Debra Sue, 10, Gary, 9, Sheryl Ann, 6, and Terry, 4 — were not hurt. Their mother died of head injuries when she was thrown out of the car.

Investigators indicated they were not able to determine exactly what distracted Mrs. Townsend, but it apparently had something to do with one of the children.

She was 31 and was returning to the family's home at Jenkins, about 15 miles northeast of Cassville, after visiting a sister-in-law. The wreck was on Missouri 148 about eight miles northeast of Cassville.

Authorities were trying to find Townsend, a sign painter reported to be working in the Rockford Ill., area painting (Purina) ad-

Women of Moose Hold Business 'Round Table'

Women of the Moose held a "Round Table" business meeting recently at the Moose Home.

During discussions, it was announced that the "Academy of Friendship" degree would be conferred upon eligible co-workers at Maplewood Lodge May 2. Chapter 1242 had two members, Agnes Venable and Phyllis Williams, who qualified, bringing total membership of Sedalia Chapter in the academy to 19.

At the May meeting, a slate of officers will be presented by the nominating committee.

An invitation was extended to the chapter to attend the installation ceremony of Moose after the meeting. Frank Vanderpool was installed as governor of Sedalia Loyal Order of the Moose. Refreshments were served.

Club Hears Of May Flower Show

Sedalia Junior Garden Club met at Sedalia Public Library in April, with the president, Cathy Warbritton, opening the meeting with Junior Garden Club and Conservation pledges.

The program was presented by Mrs. Ida Harriman, concerning the May flower show. Discussion was held on classes open to the junior gardeners and others of that age group.

Three guests, Becky Campbell, Theresa Thompson and Mary Lee Roseboom, were introduced.

Refreshments were served.

Final Stages Of Settling Fix Sandal

NEW YORK (AP) — The bulk of the nation's electrical equipment industry, caught in a price-fixing scandal in 1960, today is in the final stages of settling damages approaching $400 million.

But because of a controversial tax ruling, the companies stand to save almost half the cost through tax deductions.

The ruling has sparked a clash between the Internal Revenue Service and some congressmen who charge that General Electric, Westinghouse and the 27 other antitrust violators are getting soft treatment. In the background is the case itself, one the Justice Department said involved secret agreements over eight years to fix prices, rig bids and divide markets on electrical equipment valued at $1.75 billion annually.

The companies and 45 executives pleaded guilty or no contest to 20 antitrust indictments before a federal judge in Philadelphia who called the price-fixing "a shocking indictment" of a vast section of the economy. He sentenced seven executives to jail for 30 days in 1961 and gave 24 others suspended sentences. Fines totaled $1.9 million.

That was only the beginning. The price-fixing by companies supposed to be in competition covered products ranging from tiny $2 insulators to huge, multimillion-dollar turbine generators. Their customers sued for triple damages under the Clayton Antitrust Act, claiming they were overcharged.

The federal government, a big customer, settled for $8.8 million from 12 companies. More than 2,000 damage suits poured into the courts from private utilities and municipal power agencies. Most have been settled, almost all by negotiation.

An Associated Press poll of 14 of the 29 companies indicated the final settlement cost may total about $400 million. Almost all of this will come from the four top companies involved. They have paid or earmarked roughly $390 million.

The controversial tax ruling made last July by the Internal Revenue Service allows the companies to deduct the cost of damage settlements as "ordinary and necessary" business expense.

Only settlements made with the federal government and federal agencies weren't deductible said the IRS.

Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., and

House Judiciary Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., denounced the ruling as a "tax giveaway" and demanded an investigation.

A report on the ruling is expected to be submitted to the Joint Congressional Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation this month.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate watchdog committee went behind closed doors today to investigate what effect the Viet Nam war has had on the Army's combat readiness in other areas.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., described the probe by his Senate Armed Services Preparedness Investigating Committee as possibly the most important hearing it will undertake this year.

A report of the committee's findings ultimately will be filed with the Senate. Stennis said the nature of the inquiry requires, however, that the hearings be secret.

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Department lawyers expect court action to be stepped up against some 150 students who traveled to Cuba in 1963 and 1964 despite a department ban on such trips.

Their cases have been held up pending a Supreme Court decision involving an appeal by one of them.

The Supreme Court ruled Monday that the secretary of state did have authority to bar American travel to Cuba.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Yugoslavia has become the first Iron Curtain country to receive a permit to operate an air service to the United States.

Backed by the specific approval of President Johnson, the Civil Aeronautics Board issued a charter-flight permit Monday to Adria Airways of Yugoslavia. The three-year permit will allow Adria to fly its DC6B aircraft on up to 11 charter flights a year between the two countries. It may not operate cargo charters.

Keith Fisher Wins Pack 58 Pinewood Race

Keith Fisher won first place trophy in the April 26 Pinewood Derby of Sacred Heart Cub Scout Pack 58 at Sacred Heart Gymnasium. David Rayl and Steve Bingaman won second and third place trophies, respectively.

Other racers were: Perry Walton, fourth; John Cook, fifth; Dan Burford, sixth; and in order, Bill Straka, Raymond Young and Frank Rouchka.

The top six winners qualified to enter April 30 Championship Interpack Pinewood Derby at Smith-Cotton Auditorium.

Prize ribbons were awarded to Tony Beaudette, Bill Straka, Barry Keck and Jeff Smith for excellence of car design and construction.

Judges were Charles Bell, John Henderson and Don Weller. Earlier, Webelos Den opened the meeting with the flag ceremony.

The following boys were given awards by Jim Keck:

Den 1 — F. Rouchka, gold arrow; D. Jones, assistant denner stripe; J. Brown, denner stripe.

Den 3 — M. Purcell, and J. Smith, gold arrows.

Den 7 — K. Menefee, Frontier Badge; M. Menefee, assistant denner stripe.

David Rayl and Barry Keck were given Bear Books and Jerry Visentin and Doug Maple, Lion Badges.

Professor Recalls Strain Of Undergraduate Years

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—College students: Is there gaiety in your lives? Do you save any time for leisure?

Or is it all a grim, academic pressure cooker that makes you feel like a soggy carrot?

Recall for a moment the way it was, Dr. William C. Devane remembers the campus pace of another era, and he believes something has been lost.

Devane was graduated with the Yale Class of 1920. He was dear of Yale College for 25 years before his retirement in 1963. Now, at 66, he is back to teaching.

The soft-spoken professor of English sat in the peace of his office at Yale and talked of the style of his undergraduate days.

He said Yale recently sent around a circular suggesting that professors ease the pressure on graduate students. The strain was getting too much, he said.

"We weren't that way," Devane said. "We had time for fun."

"It began to change after the war. The veterans were serious. They knew what they wanted."

Devane came to Yale as a veteran of World War I. "But we weren't bloodied by the war," he said. "The time and the tide made for literature. From 1913 to 1923 there was an artistic and literary renaissance at the major colleges."

What the students had in those days Devane said, was an air of lightheartedness, gaiety, privacy, leisure. They worked at their studies, but there wasn't that fierce competition.

There was time to compose sonnets and light verse. There was time for classmate Thornton Wilder to begin his playwriting and Stephen Vincent Benet his books. Henry Luce and Britton Hadden, who later created Time magazine, became friends in that Class of 1920.

When Sputnik was launched in 1957, Devane said, "The tone and tempo of the society sharpened. There was more competition and it particularly affected the student."

"These are prosperous times," he went on. "There's a great push to go to college. Overcrowded institutions take away privacy and leisure. The students are working harder and more effectively, but it's a question whether they're getting as good an education."

Of the modern student Devane says, "I like boys to be boys and not be beatniks. They'll say it's freedom, but I like to see students well-dressed. I like to see girls at their best—they so seldom are. They're usually sloppy."

And in the classrooms, Devane believes, there is less good teaching, although he says this has not been a problem at Yale. The world has gone through grave times since his idyllic school days, Devane says, and that's what makes the contemporary student so serious.

Today's world "isn't the same one that I grew up in," he said, "and I liked that other world."

350 Boys Attend Scout Camporee

Approximately 350 Boy Scouts and adult leaders attended Twin Forks Boy Scout District Conservation Camporee April 30-May 2 at the Allan Kriesel farm, three miles north of Marshall, according to Claude Lambirth, district camping and activities chairman.

Alpha Phi Omega Fraternity, Missouri Valley College, Marshall, assisted with registration and the Friday campfire. Explorer Post 64, Marshall, sponsored by Marshall Methodist and Christian churches, Richard Johnson, advisor, operated the store.

Post 57, sponsored by Mark Twain PTA, Claude Lambirth, advisor, assisted with competitive events. Post 65, sponsored by Broadway Presbyterian Church, Glen Riekhof, advisor, manned a first aid station.

Saturday morning activities included demonstrations on water pollution by John F. Schondelmeyer, Sedalia. Demonstrations were also given concerning rocks and conservation, axemanship, and planting of roses and trees.

That afternoon, competition was held in axemanship. With material supplied by Eugene Peterson and Bill Hise, leaders, Troop 40, Miami. Competition was also held in flint and steel firelighting, identification of wildlife remains, edible wild plants, tree identification and animal track identifications, under general leadership of Henry Sutton, Sedalia.

A campfire, open to the public, was held Saturday evening, with approximately 450 persons present. That activity was led by Post 66, sponsored by First Christian Church, Nelson Pugh, advisor. Entertainment was provided by the troops, Post 66 and Alpha Phi Omega, Uncas Chapter, Order of the Arrow, performed Indian dances. Larry Scantlin, Post 66, was master of ceremonies.

Camporee religious services were conducted by Pugh. Some Scouts attended religious services at Marshall churches.

Will Continue Air Service On A New Route

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ozark Air Lines would continue to serve Kirksville and Moberly, Mo., but only on a new route between Des Moines and St. Louis, a Civil Aeronautics Board examiner ruled Monday.

Ozark serves the two Missouri points now between Kansas City and Chicago.

The new route, Examiner Merritt Ruhle said, should extend on a year's experimental basis by way of Ottumwa, Iowa, Kirksville, Moberly and Columbia, Mo. Quincy, Ill., and Hannibal, Mo., would be served on another route between Kirksville and St. Louis.

The examiner found that Kirksville should be eliminated from the Kansas City-Chicago flight. Service to Kirksville, he said, has required an annual federal subsidy of approximately $35,000 to accommodate 3,100 passengers.

Service to Moberly on the new St. Louis-Des Moines route would begin as soon as Ozark withdraws its application for renewal of the Moberly flight on the Kansas City-Chicago flight.

Stella Picks Nude Photos Of Herself

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Stella Stevens was broke a few years ago and posed in the nude for a girlie magazine.

She's no longer broke. In fact, she has arrived as a movie actress.

But there in the same magazine, again, is a bare Stella. How come?

"I got $3,000 for posing the first time. This last time, I did it for nothing. Why?"

"I'll tell you why. They kept using the old pictures over and over again. So I figured that I'd control the art myself. I hired a photographer and posed in the nude for a hundred or so shots."

"I selected the ones I liked best and sent them to the magazine. They are pictures I like and ones that I feel are in good taste."

"At least if I'm going to show up nude in the magazine every few months, it will be with pictures that I like."

She fears she has scandalized her home town of Memphis.

"A reporter for one of the newspapers there called me and said the whole town is talking about me."

"I guess the preachers are preaching about me again."

She still thinks she did the right thing.

"I didn't do it for publicity. Who knows whether something like this can't do more harm than good? All I know is that the photographs of me in the nude would have kept recurring. This way, at least, they'll be better."

Career-wise, Stella is riding high. Just released is "Synanon," and soon to be released is "The Secret of My Success," in both of which she is starred.

The curvy blonde just bought a new house in the exclusive Coldwater Canyon district of Beverly Hills.

She has a live-in maid and her 9-year-old son goes to a military school.

The Memphis bombshell has come a long way.

And, she adds: "I once said I would never pose in the nude again but then what girl wants to open a magazine and see 6-year-old pictures of herself."

Urge To Play 'Bird' Tricks Grips Nets

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The irresistible urge to play electronic tricks with communications satellite Early Bird gripped the three major television networks Monday.

All three did a portion of their evening news roundups via the transatlantic satellite. NBC's Hugh Downs was stationed on a rainy London street in the morning while his "Today Show" colleagues were broadcasting from other landmarks in Rome and Paris.

Monday night David Brinkley received his usual goodnight from Chet Huntley in London.

But it was CBS which forcefully demonstrated the importance of our new, two-way live television link between nations with its "Town Meeting of the World," broadcast live in the early afternoon and repeated Monday night.

It was an exciting and illuminating hour with Secretary of State Dean Rusk in Washington, British Foreign Minister Michael Stewart in London, French Deputy Maurice Schumann and former British Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home in Paris and Barry Goldwater in New York.

Perhaps none of the participants advanced any new ideas. Perhaps no positions were changed or modified. But for the average anxious citizen just to sit in on such an informed, high-level talk was enlightening and somehow reassuring.

Just as NBC was being generally conceded the victor's palm in the season's Nielsen ratings sweepstakes, along comes the final rating report before the onset of summer rerun time. It makes CBS a winner by an eyelash.

The national Nielsen averages for the two-week period ending April 18 gave CBS a rating of 18.8, ABC 18.3 and NBC 18.0.

The 10 most popular programs of the two-week period, according to Nielsen, were, in order, the Academy Awards show, Bonanza, Gomer Pyle, Bewitched, the Dick Van Dyke Show, The Fugitive, The Andy Griffith Show, Beverly Hills, Peyton Place, (Thursday night episodes), and Gunsmoke.

US Boosts European Industry

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Western Europe's skyrocketing industry is getting a major boost from U.S. space firms. But the U.S. companies are not giving away their lead in technology. They're interested in cooperating with European space firms primarily for one reason — sales.

"It's a two-way street," said John L. Galt, manager of international marketing for General Electric's Missile Space Division. "An long as we maintain a technical lead and keep our prices competitive, we should be doing business with Western Europe for some time."

Galt said Western Europe's space industry "has grown from virtually nothing two years ago to a $100-million to $200-million-a-year business. We expect it to continue to grow at an accelerating rate."

Galt spearheaded arrangements for the Eurospace conference now under way in this country. Eurospace is a cooperative venture by Europeans in the space business. American firms are corresponding, but nonvoting, members.

An official of one of the large American space firms said of the Europeans: "If they're willing to buy from us, there's no reason why we shouldn't sell."

He said the whole range of civilian space development is involved — communications satellites, weather satellites.

Galt said Western Europe has the financial capability of matching U.S. space accomplishments, but lacks the political motivation.

By political motivation, he said, he means the United States "has to maintain a position of leadership, technical, financial, in the eyes of the world."

World News In Brief

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II's husband says he came very close to getting tight during his eight-week tour of Asia and Australia.

In a radio interview Sunday, Prince Philip told of attending a banquet in Borneo and being offered a harmless-looking drink.

"It tasted very good," said the prince. "I had two tumblers of it."

"I could hardly walk afterwards."

The spectacle gave his hosts "immense pleasure," he added.

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — Two opposition parties in South Korea's National Assembly announce that they have decided to merge. This will give them a united front in their campaign to block government negotiations to normalize relations with Japan.

The Civil Rule party, led by former President Yun Po-sun, and the Democratic party, led by Assemblywoman Park Soon-chun, together have 63 seats in the 175-member Assembly. President Chung Hee Park's ruling Democratic Republicans hold 110 seats.

The new party will be called The Masses party.

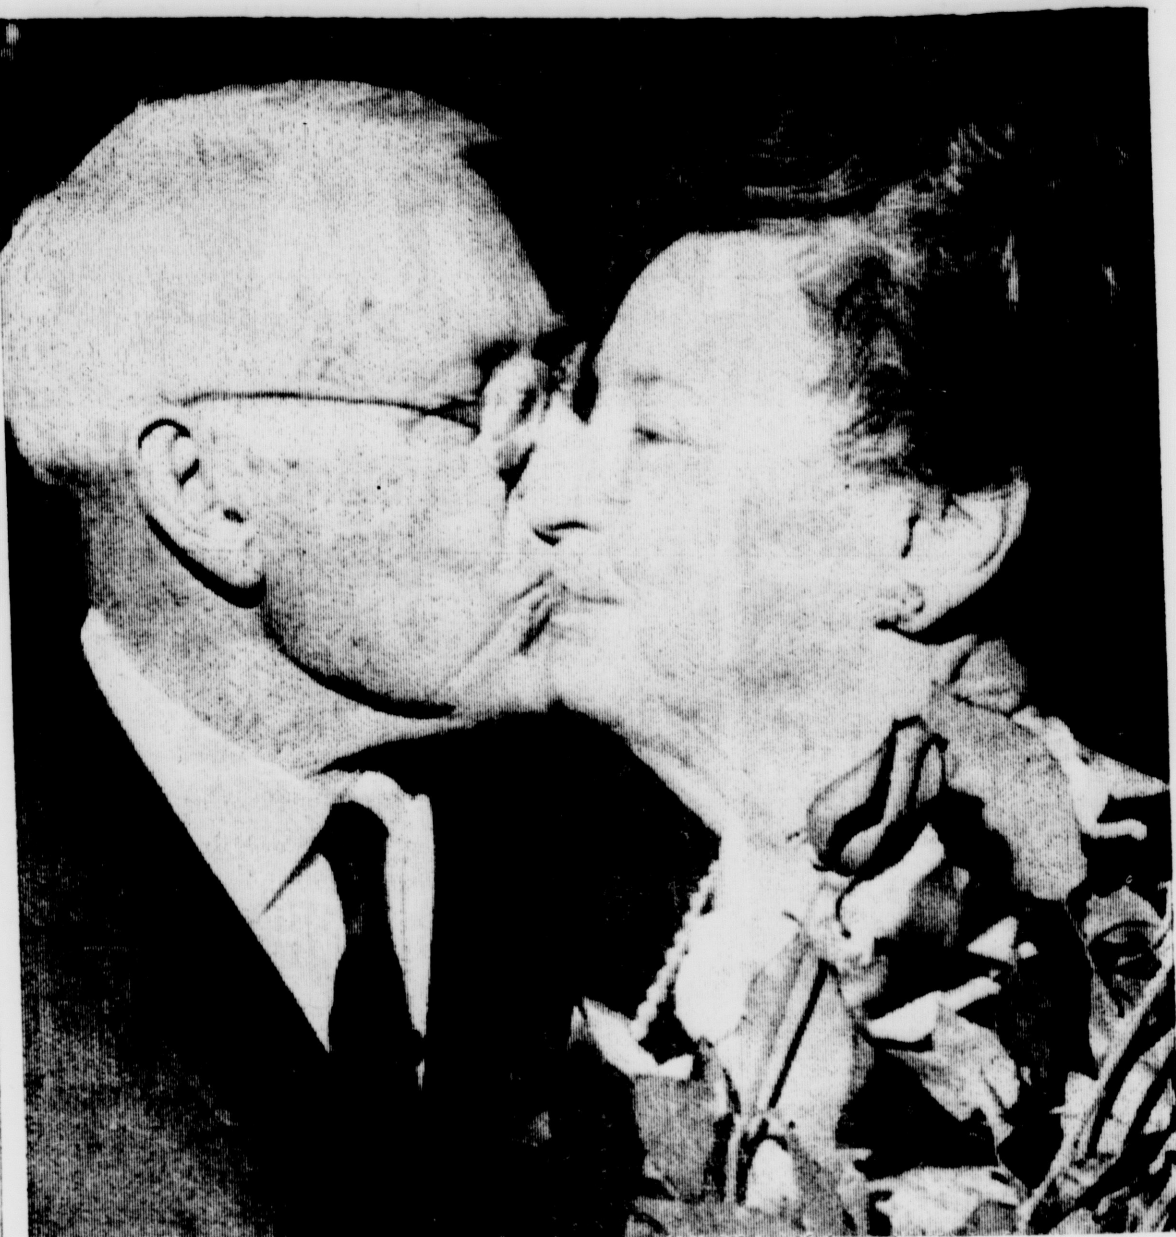

PRAGUE (AP) — American poet Allan Ginsberg was crowned "King of Majales" by Prague's younger set in a beatnik May Day weekend celebration that set this Communist capital on its heels.

The Red regime successfully launched a new "loose leash" policy after three previous years had brought violent May Day clashes between police and youth.

The youths also crowned a pretty college girl "Miss Majales," but the biggest ovation went to Ginsberg, for years the idol of Prague's beat generation. He was in town to accept the honor.

BERLIN (AP) — Three East German teen-agers escaped to West Berlin during the weekend, but a fourth man was shot in his bid for freedom.

West Berlin police said the youths, 15 and 16, tore through the barbed-wire obstacles in northern Berlin late Saturday.

Two Girls Hurt As Cops Charge Demonstrators

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Police on foot and on motorcycles charged a crowd of civil rights demonstrators and bystanders Tuesday night at all-white Girard College, reportedly injuring two girls.

They arrested six persons, all Negroes, in the action, which took place after the anti-segregation picketing of the school, which had gone on during four consecutive days, was called off for the night.

Hahnemann Hospital reported it treated Henrietta Dixon, 15.

THE SEDALIA DEMOCRAT—Sedalia, Mo., Thurs., May 6, '65 9

for a contusion of the left knee, and Carol Palmer, 15, for abrasions of both legs, and released both girls. A hospital spokesman said the girls were brought in by police, who said they had been struck by motorcycles.

Pickets, led by the NAACP, have been demonstrating at Girard College since last Saturday in opposition to its white-only admission policy. That policy, written into the will of its founder, financier Stephen Girard, in 1848, was upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court in 1958.

The domestic cat was worshiped in Egypt. Thousands of cat mummies have been discovered there, and there were even mouse mummies, presumably to provide food for the cats. The Egyptians had a cat-headed goddess named Bast, whose chief seat of worship was the city of Bubastis.

Accidents

The accelerator on a 1965 Thunderbird apparently stuck and the auto booted some 90 feet, striking a parked car and then smashing into the mall at the Thompson Hills Shopping Center at 11:39 a.m. Thursday.

Mrs. Nela M. Greer, 65, 1641 Country Club, the driver of the auto, told police she turned on the ignition and the car took off at a high rate of speed.

The auto was travelling south on the parking lot and struck the left front of a parked 1959 Chevrolet, owned by William K. Warnock, Clinton, before coming to rest on the sidewalk at the mall. A support post was broken by the impact and a portion of the roof caved in over the car.

Mrs. Greer was taken to Bothwell Hospital, but was released after treatment for a kneecap injury.

Mrs. Greer is the wife of William A. Greer. He is a business partner in Thompson-Greer Motor Company with E. W. Thompson, shopping center developer.

Mrs. Edna Williams, 51, Route 2, Ottumville, was treated at Bothwell Hospital following a car-pedestrian accident at Main and Osage at 12:56 p.m. Wednesday.

Doctor F. E. Manatt, who treated her, reported that X-rays had failed to show any broken bones, but that she suffered bruises and contusions of the neck, left shoulder, left foot, left hip and cervical vertebra. She was not admitted to the hospital.

Mrs. Margaret F. Coffelt, 39, Houstonia, was the driver of a northbound 1959 Chevrolet while Mrs. Williams was crossing Osage west on Main from the southeast to the southwest corner, police reported.

Two cars were extensively damaged in an accident in the 700 block of West Broadway at 9:45 p.m. Wednesday.

Involved were a 1965 Rambler, driven west on Broadway by Harold Lloyd McDonald, 32, Whiteman AFB, which collided with the rear of a 1960 Mercury, headed west on Broadway and stopped in a lane of traffic. The Mercury was driven by Harold L. Fricke, 47, 239 South Park, police reported.

The Fricke car in turn collided with the rear of an unidentified vehicle.

Damaged were the front and rear of the Mercury and the front of the Rambler.

McDonald received a police summons for careless and imprudent driving and is to appear in police court, May 10.

One car backed into another parked on the city parking lot at Main and Osage at 11:40 p.m. Wednesday night.

Police reported a 1964 Chevrolet, driven by Edgar D. Robertson, 48, 1105 South Kentucky, struck on the left rear fender a 1960 Ford, owned by Lee A. Tolliver, Warsaw.

Robertson was arrested on a charge of careless and imprudent driving and leaving the scene of an accident on complaint of Tolliver and is to appear in Police Court on May 10, police said.

The State Highway Patrol reported no injuries in a car-truck collision at the intersection of North Grand and Highway 65 at 1:05 p.m. Wednesday.

Trooper Pete Stohr, who investigated, said the mishap occurred as a 1964 Pontiac sedan, driven east by Wilbur Stuerke, 40, Sunset Motel, Sedalia, was passing a truck just as the truck made a left turn off Highway 65 on to Grand. The 1944 International truck was driven by Vincent Lamberjack, 22, an employee of the PAR Construction Company.

The right side of the Stuerke auto collided with the left front of the truck.

The 1500 block of South Ingram was the scene of a two-car accident at 3:55 p.m. Wednesday.

Police reported that a 1959 Buick, being backed and driven by Ordine P. Long, 66, 1811 South Carr, and a 1966 Dodge, driven south on Limit by Gerald L. Holman, 29, 1818 East 15th, were involved.

The right rear of the Long car and the left front of the Holman car were damaged.

Police Reports

Danny Allen, 317 North Quincy, reported to police Wednesday the theft of his red and white 26-inch English bicycle. He related that the theft occurred overnight Tuesday.

A metropolitan newspaper rack was removed from in front of the Sedalia Drug Store, 122 South Ohio, overnight Wednesday. But police located the rack at the rear of Midwest Auto a short distance away.

TRIP TO WASHINGTON—Roy Poynter, center, who was selected as a delegate from the Sedalia area to attend the National Safety Patrol Parade in Washington, D. 'Law Day' Topic At Lions Meet

"The Rule of Law is Our Heritage, Let Us Cherish and Defend It" was the subject of Henry C. Salveter, attorney, who spoke to the Sedalia Lions Club at its noon day meeting at Bothwell Hotel, Wednesday. His talk was one of several being made to civic clubs and organizations by members of the Pettis County Bar Association in connection with "Law Day" which was May 1.

Mr. Salveter reviewed the policies upon which these United States are founded, and of progress through these many years, telling the group the necessity of laws and courts to settle our disputes.

The program was arranged by Henry A. Keeler of the Bar Association who introduced Salveter. Keeler was introduced by the club's program chairman Dr. C. A. Kirkpatrick.

A brief discussion on the State Convention of Multiple District 26 of Lions International of which Missouri comprises the district to be held in Kansas City at the President Hotel June 4, 5 and 6 was held.

Dr. O. J. Durnell, president, presided over the meeting.

St. Patrick's Families Hold Meal At School

A covered dish supper was held in St. Patrick's School cafeteria April 29. A social hour was held for new families.

Also attending were: the Rev. Charles Pfeiffer, pastor; the Rev. Henry Reichert, assistant pastor; Sister Fortunata Marie, Sister Mary Catherine, and Sister Marilyn Thomas.

The committee appointed for the arrangements was comprised of: Mrs. Virgil Dieckhaus, chairman; Mrs. R. L. Hogan, Mrs. Richard Moon, Mrs. Paul Wensch, Mrs. Jake Kraus, and Mrs. John Wiesbrod. Volunteers assisted.

Pre-enrollment for prospective first graders was held during the week for children who will be six by Sept. 15.

(Continued from page one) tractor, Taylor said, and the 10-inch main is now in on the north side up to Park. Transfer of services for this portion are to be started soon by the Water Department.

During the past year (March to March) the department installed 24,629 feet of new water pipe, Taylor said, or 4.66 miles. In various sizes the new installations break down as follows: 10-inch, 4,861 feet; 8-inch, 8,364 feet; 6-inch, 7,531 feet; and 2 1/2-inch, 3,873.

A shipment of 5,000 channel catfish for Springfield Lake previously scheduled for stocking in early April has been delayed, but the department was informed some of the shipment was to be delivered Thursday afternoon. This stocking will bring the total of channel cats placed in the lake to 16,290 during the board's past 2 1/2-year stocking program. Fishing success has been high at the lake this spring and good strings of catfish have been harvested by local anglers.

Auditors conducting the annual audit of Water Department books completed their work Wednesday and the report is to be submitted at the board's June meeting. Taylor announced.

Mrs. Richard Larimore of Concordia.

Attending the celebration on Sunday were many of his relatives, Mr. and Mrs. John Burfield, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mieser, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Larimore and two children, Mrs. William Sass, and Mr. and Mrs. Willis Sass and son, all from Concordia; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Buhlig and Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Buhlig, Alma; Mr. and Mrs. H. Schmidt, Waverly; Mr. and Mrs. John Rasa, Dover; Mr. and Mrs. William Heins, Blackburn; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Young, Chillicothe; Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Meyer, Smithton; Mr. and Mrs. John Witte, Windsor; Mr. and Mrs. Gerhard Wiesner, Chicago; Alpha Buhlig, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Witte, Mrs. Jim Yeager and daughter, Sharon and Mrs. Lela Henley, Sedalia.

Neighbors came in for the evening, too.

Mr. Witte was born in Germany, near Berlin, on May 6, 1865, the second son of a family of three girls and three boys, and he is the only one living. He came to this country many years ago.

The oldest member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, flowers on the altar Sunday were in commemoration of his birthday given by the Rachel Circle, and an arrangement of red roses was given by the Ladies Aid of the church.

Last Nov. 5, he had a bad fall and was in the hospital for two months, the first time in his life he had even been in a hospital. It was not such a bad experience after all because the nurses and doctors were all so good to him but he was glad to be back home again. Now he looks well but is unable to get around.

Many people visit him and that always cheers him, but the really bright spot in his life is the visits of his granddaughter, Mary Lou, who is Mrs. Jim Yeager, and her little girl Sharon. Mary Lou makes her visits frequent and now and then helps to care for him.

He has been with his daughter, Nola, and her husband for the past 20 years, after the death of his wife.

And so the birthday that brings his life to 100 years began early and looks like it will continue for sometime — for after all not many people reach the century mark — 100 years within which there have been so many changes and so many things have happened.

Mr. Witte is a retired MKT shop man, and a letter from the Railroad Retirement Board chairman, Howard W. Habermeyer, Chicago, stated that their records show his 100th birthday to be May 6. Habermeyer congratulated him and sent best wishes from the board, saying that few persons on their records have reached that age. The records, the letter stated, shows he has been retired since June 1936.

Because smoking a pipe is one of his greatest enjoyments Pfeiffer's Floral Co., sent him a ceramic flower pot in the shape of a pipe with a growing vine.

Thinking about his coming birthday Mr. Witte said, "As a boy I never thought I would ever live to be so old."

play with the Board of Church Extension of the denomination with headquarters in Indianapolis. They also endorsed the Supreme Court decision against prescribed prayers and Bible reading in public schools. They reaffirmed emphatic opposition to legalizing gambling in Missouri.

They also called themselves together for intensified evangelism and Bible study and continued participation in the Missouri Council of Churches. They authorized courses for a state Christian Leaders Advancement School to be held in Columbia in July. They advocated more effective summer vacation Church Schools and youth camps, conferences and service work camps.

Presiding over the afternoon business session was the state church association president Paul M. Bolman of Creve Coeur; Vice-president J. A. Parker of Cape Girardeau presided over the morning and night programs.

Wednesday evening Walter Price, ecumenical minister of the Missouri Council of Churches, cited that the rising new ecumenism proclaims a gospel of salvation, the methods of it, and a strong will among Christians to be united. He noted the corrupting and degrading evil forces with which people today must cope which, he said, plead for a united Christian voice and a united church force.

To renew insights into evangelism for local churches, Forrest Haggard of Overland Park, Kan., Christian Church, spoke yesterday morning following an evangelism panel by Glynn Burke of Columbia; John Sutfenfield of the state staff; John Farr of Bowling Green; Tracey Hopper of Trenton; and Eugene Moore, associate executive state minister from Jefferson City.

In the Wednesday afternoon sessions, the Missouri School of Religion alumni were addressed by Dean Thomas R. Shroat of the school, and the Disciples Peace Fellowship saw the motion picture, "Which Way the Wind."

Providing music for the evening service of worship was the combined Sedalia church choirs including those of Calvary Episcopal, Epworth Methodist, Trinity Lutheran, First Christian, Wesley Methodist and Broadway Presbyterian. Bob Findland was director. Mrs. L. H. Temple Jr. served as organist Wednesday evening; Mrs. J. W. Watts was organist Tuesday evening; and William McCandless was scheduled for tonight.

Asparagus—An Early Tasty Vegetable

Asparagus shoots grow very rapidly, and require frequent cutting, especially if the temperature is high. Early in the season the shoots may require cutting only every third day; but as the growth becomes more active, it may be necessary to cut more than once a day, since spears may grow as much as 8 to 10 inches per day.

The harvesting of asparagus usually runs about 6 weeks during the year. The better harvesting, packaging, and shipping methods have improved the flavor of the asparagus reaching the retail counter. Studies show that the flavored sugar of the asparagus must be kept below forty-one degrees. Rapid handling from the field into the cooling room, and held continuously at this temperature until it arrives at the market, is important. The butt of the stalk must be kept moist to prevent a woody texture. A moisture pad is put in the bottom of the crate, or a consumer's size package, for this purpose.

When the green shoot is seven to nine inches high, a fish-tail shaped sharp blade is used to cut the individual stalks, just beneath the soil. So far, this cutting must be done almost entirely by hand. The commercial operators have been working on machinery that will do this job, but up to the present time, mechanical harvesting equipment has not been too successful.

The best quality of asparagus should be fresh, tender, and firm, with close, compact tips. A tender stalk is brittle and easily punctured. A wilted appearance or a spreading tip is often an indication that considerable time has elapsed since cutting. Look for a deep green or bluish green in the tips. Avoid offerings with an excessive amount of white stems for they are likely to be dry, withered and tough. The whole stalk, with the exception of an inch or two at the base, should be tender. The small amount of white at the base helps to preserve moisture in the green part.

Asparagus appears on the market from about mid January and through July. With the greatest supply available in April, May and June.

Green asparagus is a good source of Vitamin A. White asparagus has little Vitamin A. However, its Vitamin C content is the same as that in the green asparagus.

Prepare the vegetable by bending the stalk so that it snaps at the tender spot, or cut above the white area. Wash asparagus well. Asparagus should be cooked only until it is tender crisp. It may be left whole and set up-right in a deep pan, or a coffee pot. The base will be in water, and the heads will steam. Another method of preparation is to have about one inch of boiling salted water in a skillet, then lay the stalks down, one layer deep, and cook quickly. Another method is to cut into small pieces the less tender parts of the stalk, start these cooking in boiling water, a few minutes before you put in the rest of the stalk and the tips.

Freeze Asparagus
Select young, tender stalks with compact tips. Sort according to thickness of stalk.
Wash asparagus thoroughly and cut or break off and discard tough parts of stalks. Leave spears in lengths to fit the package or cut in 2-inch lengths.
Heat stalks in boiling water according to thickness of stalk: Small stalks, 2 minutes; medium stalks, 3 minutes; large stalks, 4 minutes.

Cool promptly in cold water and drain.

Pack into containers, leaving no head space. When packing spears, alternate tips and stem ends. In containers that are wider at the top than bottom, pack asparagus with tips down. Seal and freeze.

Fruit and Nut Breads From Mixes
Fruit and nut bread mixes usually made standard loaves of these popular quick breads. If you are disappointed in the ones you bake, the trouble may be in the way you make them.

If your loaf is smaller than you expected, you may have baked it in too large a pan or at too high temperature. Holes and tunnels will be in the loaf if you beat the batter too long or do not measure the liquid accurately, or if you bake it at too high a temperature.

You may have a loaf with a sticky crust if you bake it at too low a temperature or for too short a time. Too much liquid may make sticky crust. You may have a dip in the center of your loaf if you bake it at too low temperature or for too short a time, or in a pan too small so the batter is too deep. If you test too soon for doneness, the loaf may fall.

If you have a peak in the center of a loaf of nut or fruit bread made from a mix, you may have beaten it too long or you have set the pan too close to the oven wall. A loaf with an extra high lump in the center means that you probably baked it at too high a temperature or in a pan too small.

Don't be disappointed if your loaf has a crack in the top crust. That is the nature of many quick breads. A crust forms early in the baking and the center continues to rise and pushes through the top crust as it bakes.

Try To End Debating On Vote Rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders will try to end debate on the voting rights bill next week.

The speedup maneuver was announced Tuesday by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen. They have been as close as Siamese twins in handling the legislation.

If Mansfield and Dirksen get two-thirds of the Senate to go along, each senator will be limited to an hour's speaking time on the bill and its amendments.

A complaint was registered immediately by Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., who is standing in for the ailing Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., as tactician for Southern senators.

Ellender charged the leaders with "bad grace" and said the current version of the measure has been under debate only two days. Ellender said he and other senators haven't spoken about it yet.

Mansfield and Dirksen will file their cloture — debate-limiting — petition Monday. Under Senate rules it will come to a vote next Wednesday, an hour after the Senate meets.

Before making their cloture announcement, Mansfield and Dirksen tried to obtain a unanimous-consent agreement to limit debate on two major amendments to four hours each, on other amendments to two hours each, and on the bill itself to six hours.

Ellender blocked it, despite Dirksen's plea that "the Senate cannot be stalemated."

Mansfield asked if Ellender would agree to a debate limitation if additional time were allotted for consideration of amendments.

"No, not at this time," Ellender replied.

If the bill becomes law, literacy tests would be suspended and South to make sure Negroes are not barred from voting. Southerners have denounced the bill as sectional, punitive pointed in wide areas of the and unconstitutional.

A Quick and Healthy Ear

To listen secretly to what is said in private is called eavesdropping which probably had its origin in the practice of persons standing under the overhanging edge of a roof and listening to what is said within doors.

Generally speaking, eavesdropping applies to anyone deliberately bending a cocked ear to other persons' conversation which is of no direct interest to them. This is impolite to say the least.

On the other hand situations occur in public places, particularly, restaurants, cafes and taverns where persons such as waitresses can't help but overhear table talk, some of which is very personal and private. In that event they should forget about it, or adopt the role of a gossip.

But here is a story about a waitress in Huntingburg, Ind., who overheard a group of executives from Chicago talking in a restaurant where they had stopped for lunch. The subject of their conversation was about the men's tour of Southern Indiana looking for a site for a new industrial plant. There was nothing secret about it, and the girl couldn't help but hear, so certainly she had no guilt complex when she interrupted the men to ask: "Are you looking for a place to locate a new factory?"

The unusual part of this was not the eavesdropping angle which could hardly be so classified under the circumstances, but the fact that this waitress was so spry in demonstrating community loyalty. She couldn't tell the men where there was a factory location, but she could tell them where to go to get the information they needed—to a local automobile dealer, and the mayor — and she got their telephone number for the visitors, too. Business contacts were made.

The sequel to this incident? The waitress had been talking to the general manager of a Chicago firm that makes foundation garments. The latter commented publicly: "From this insignificant little deed on the part of this industrious waitress grew the development and final completion of the transaction. This will give Huntingburg a large new industry which should be a great economic boost not only for the town but for the entire surrounding community."

Huntingburg people raised $50,000 to aid the company in location of a factory which will employ 250 persons.

In addition the community organized a "College for Liz Fund," to raise money for a college scholarship for Elizabeth Ann Masterson, 17-year-old high school senior student. This will be in recognition of her alertness on behalf of the community. Her example certainly deserves emulation by service people everywhere — even if it is nothing more than plain courtesy which, coupled to permissible extra sensory auditory reflexes — call it eavesdropping, if you please — some times pay off handsomely in community progress dividends.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

World Considers USA An Aggressor

By DREW PEARSON

(Editors Note: On the 20th anniversary of the ending of World War II, Drew Pearson today continues his report on whether we are on the verge of World War III.)

WASHINGTON —It was at 3:41 p. m. Eastern Standard Time twenty years ago today that a general cessation of hostilities was agreed upon at Rheims and the great war in Europe began grinding to a final halt.

Today, twenty years later, the United States finds itself fighting a disagreeable, persistently bloody war half way round the globe; and has landed more troops on the soil of a Caribbean neighbor than that neighbor claims in its entire military establishment.

It also finds itself with the goodwill it had once built up around the world evaporated. It finds itself criticized, not merely by Pravda and Izvestia, but by its allies of NATO and its good neighbors in Latin America.

Secretary of State Rusk has tagged American critics of our foreign policy as guilty of "nonsense, gullibility, and stubborn disregard of the facts." Nevertheless, if the present situation is not to erode into another world war, discussion is necessary.

Among other things, Americans who last November voted against a man they considered trigger-happy because he promised to defoliate the Vietnamese jungles, have a right to know why the non-trigger happy man they elected has now defoliated the jungles and landed Marines in the Caribbean without waiting even two hours to confer with the OAS, an organization which could have saved him a lot of trigger-happy headaches.

So before we slide into another world war, twenty years after the end of the last one, let's examine what we face, how we got there and how we can get out.

Who Are Appeasers?

It is said that those who question current Johnson policy in South Viet Nam are appeasers. They are compared with the umbrella-carrying Neville Chamberlain who bowed to Hitler at Munich. And the Chinese are compared to the military machine of Adolf Hitler which swept over Austria, Czechoslovakia, and Western Europe a quarter of a century ago.

This is the criticism of the anti-critics expressed in Congress and the State Department.

Outside the confines of the United States, criticism is different. In Japan, our staunchest ally in Asia, we are considered the aggressor in Viet Nam. Anti-American feeling is just as strong in Japan today as when President Eisenhower had to cancel his visit in 1960.

At that time, Eisenhower did visit the Philippines. Today, Johnson could not visit the Philippines. Riots would endanger his life.

Even in Western Europe, the President would face hostile crowds and embarrassing demonstrations — the real reason he cancelled plans for foreign trips this year.

Reason for this hostility is that we, not the Chinese, are considered the Hitler-like aggressors in Viet Nam. Sen. Tom Dodd of Connecticut, Dean Rusk and the anti-critics don't seem to realize this, but whenever a powerful nation occupies the soil of a smaller nation, the larger is considered the aggressor. This is especially true when the large nation is white and the little nation is black, yellow, or brown.

Are The Chinese Aggressors?

There is also the Dean Rusk argument that China is the aggressor because it wants to play dominoes against the free world, knocking down Viet Nam, then Thailand, then all of Southeast Asia.

Readers of this column know that I hold no brief for Red China. But history shows that the Chinese, through the centuries, have not been military aggressors. They have spread their influence through culture, industry, economics, not by war.

It is true that the Mongol hordes, after first conquering the Chinese, swept over Europe, until finally subdued by the Chinese through economics and inter marriage.

But today the Chinese are so non-aggressive militarily that they permit U.S. fortifications on the islands of Quemoy and Matsu to remain only three and twelve miles off the Chinese mainland.

Quemoy is about as far from the Chinese metropolis of Amoy as Staten Island is from Manhattan.

President Johnson has landed troops in the Dominican Republic 1,500 miles from New York because he says a certain rum-bur of pro-Castro non-Dominicans participated in the revolution.

Imagine how long he would permit Staten Island, if bristling with the guns and fortifications of a foreign power, to remain in New York Harbor without doing something about it.

On March 24, 1955, Admiral Robert Carney, then Chief of Naval operations, told Washington newsmen that the Chinese would invade Quemoy-Matsu by April 15. That was ten years and three weeks ago. The Chinese have not invaded.

It is true that the Chinese do not believe in coexistence, and have said so many, many times in the months of argument and name-calling with their Communist rivals in Moscow. Students of their tactics believe that what they really stand for is warfare by political, economic, cultural subversion.

Their merchants have migrated to the Philippines, Thailand, the Malays, and Indonesia, where they dominate the retail trade in those nations. They own most of the big department stores in Manila, Jakarta, Singapore.

But they have done this through hard work and native shrewdness, not war. Some of it has been below the belt, deceitful, unconventional, but it is not the Hitler-type aggression which the anti-critics and Dean Rusk claim it is.

The United States will have to cope with it, but not by using paratroopers, helicopters, and the conventional type of weapons we have sent to Southeast Asia.

At a peppy assembly held in the auditorium of Sedalia High school a beautiful loving cup won by the Latin team at Warrensburg was presented the school. Members of the winning team were: Misses Mary Vesta Ricks, Opal Smith and Marie Brennecke. Miss Ricks won the Latin scholarship.

The World Today

Extraordinary Performance By LBJ

By JAMES MARLOW

AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — Probably no man in the White House ever wished more for public approval, or was more conscious of critics, than President Johnson.

It does much to explain his switch in tactics. After ordering Marines into South Viet Nam and the bombing of North Viet Nam, he had to be prodded into talking. Since sending troops into the Dominican Republic he hasn't stopped talking.

When the bombing began last February, the White House simply issued a statement that it was in retaliation for a guerrilla attack on a U.S. air base in South Viet Nam.

As the weeks passed and the bombings continued and the Marines went in Johnson was pelted with criticism at home and abroad, although he got much approval. But he played so much pressure piled on him to start explaining.

He finally did on April 7. But the criticism continued. Then he did the exact opposite in public relations last week when he decided to send troops into the Dominican Republic, splintered into chaos by revolution.

He went on the air to explain April 28, April 30, and again May 2. All these broadcasts were at night, the last one Sunday night. It meant breaking into programs. On the last broadcast, 30 minutes long, not all networks carried him.

But the way he built up to main emphasis on why he used troops in Asia and Latin America was almost identical in both cases.

In Viet Nam he first put the emphasis on saving the South Vietnamese people from communism but finally put it on American determination to stop the spread of communism.

In the Dominican Republic he first put the emphasis on saving American lives there and later said the goal was stopping the spread of communism in the Americas.

But, remembering the criticism he got for not talking sooner on Viet Nam, Johnson's timetable of public statements on the Dominican Republic can hardly be interpreted as anything but an anxious search for approval.

First, three broadcasts — April 28 and 30 and May 2 — and on the last day an off-the-record walk around the White House with reporters, explaining his problems.

A 30-minute broadcast May 2 and on May 3 an unexpected appearance before a labor conference to defend his actions in Latin America. But Tuesday, May 4, was truly a busy talking day.

He sent a message to Congress, asking it to vote $700 million for the Viet Nam fighting, but first he brought squads of senators and representatives for a briefing on what he was going to repeat in the message anyway.

He left no doubt here that what he wanted, more than the money, was approval. He explained he could get the money from other funds already approved by Congress. He explained his motive.

Nothing, he said, could do more to show national unity — which means support for him — than an "overwhelming vote" for what he asked.

"To deny and delay this," he went on, "means to deny and delay the fullest support of the American people and the American Congress to those brave men who are risking their lives for freedom in Viet Nam."

He said all those voting for his request would be telling the world Congress and the President stood united in frustrating communism.

While the House approved the money Wednesday, and the Senate will quickly, several senators expressed misgivings about having their votes interpreted as blanket approval for waging undeclared war anywhere.

After his Tuesday session with the members of Congress Johnson led reporters on an hour-long trek around the White House again, talking about Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic and his responsibilities, and defending his actions against criticism.

It was an extraordinary week and, for a President, an extraordinary performance.

School and You

School Day Too Long?

By SUSAN LIGHT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR MRS. LIGHT: I have taught primary children for 30 years, and I believe that the present 5½-hour working day is too long for small children.

First, let me speak as a mother. I have raised four children, and I know that, with the present length of the school day, youngsters have no time for family experiences at home—experiences which are just as important as school.

Now as a teacher. At one time, because of overcrowded conditions, we had two sessions each day. Each group stayed three hours. We wasted no time in school, believe me, but DID have time for extras beyond the "three R's," such as music and science. Some terms later the achievement of the half-day session children was checked, and they had not fallen below their achievement expectation level. I am NOT advocating half-day sessions, but surely there is a happy medium between three hours and five and one-half hours.

I have a great deal of respect for educators on the college level, even those who advocate a longer day. But any teacher will tell you it's impossible to carry out the ideal situations, methods, etc., studied in education courses. It is easy to say, "We need a six-hour day," but a great deal harder to make it work.

In view of the short attention span of small children, if a shorter day did little more than relieve some of the nervous tensions which are the cause of many discipline problems and much low achievement, it would be well worth serious consideration.

What can parents do? They can take their suggestions to the TOP administrators and the school board.

The hands of teachers are tied. We cannot put ourselves in the position of seeming to ask for a shorter working day for ourselves. But I know we would see good results if there were less pressure on our students. May I recommend an excellent article in the February issue of the National Educator Journal — "Don't Rob Them of Their Childhood."

Existing procedures are difficult to change in any school system. But constructive ideas of parents working toward better schools and less frustrated children most certainly deserve thoughtful consideration—Akron, Ohio, Primary Teacher

Prompt Treatment For Peritonitis Cure

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Association

Q—What is peritonitis? Can it be cured?

A—Peritonitis is an inflammation of the inner wall of the abdominal cavity. The commonest causes are rupture of the appendix or of a peptic ulcer. It may also follow a gunshot or stab wound of the abdomen or it may occur by extension from a liver abscess or abscess of the uterine tubes. The victim has a severe pain which may be diffused throughout the abdomen or localized in a small area. The pain is aggravated by movement or pressure. There is fever and the victim's breathing is rapid and shallow in order to minimize the pain.

The treatment usually involves opening the abdomen, stopping the leak, flushing out the abdominal cavity and giving mass doses of antibiotics. Fluids by vein and blood transfusions are also often necessary. With prompt treatment recovery is to be expected.

Q—What is meant by milk leg? Is it the same as edema? What causes it and what can be done for it?

A—Milk leg is an inflammation of the deep veins of the thigh and leg, usually on one side only. It is a phlebitis that comes on 10 to 14 days after milk comes into the breasts, childbirth or shortly after the milk comes into the breasts. The first manifestation is pain along the course of the involved vein. As the vein becomes plugged by the formation of clots, edema or waterlogging occurs.

Milk leg may be caused by previously existing varicose period of bed rest following delivery. Dextran, anticoagulants and clot-dissolving drugs are used in the treatment. Smoking should be avoided because it constricts the blood vessels. An elastic bandage may have to be worn for a while.

Q—Ever since I had my second baby 2½ years ago I have had a feeling of nausea whenever I go into a store. My doctor says it's all in my head. What do you think?

A—Persistent nausea is often caused by anemia, cirrhosis of the liver and chronic low-grade colitis. Even though your doctor may have ruled out these and other possible organic causes, this does not necessarily mean it is all in your head. Emotional tension may, however, be a factor.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

Quick Action Needed For Abscessed Teeth

By William Lawrence, D.D.S.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

She looked sad. Her right cheek was red, swollen, and tender. Her right eye was partly closed. The side of her nose and her lips were swollen and red. The whole side of her face "beat like a pulse." Neck glands were not involved and strangely enough she was not in pain.

"About two months ago," Mrs. Josephine P. said, "this tooth on my upper right side became sensitive to hot and cold. Then the tooth seemed to get out of place and when I closed my mouth it kept getting in the way. I couldn't eat because it hurt so much when I bit on it. The gums around the tooth puffed up on and off, but two days ago it began to really swell. I was up the whole night before with a toothache, but when it began to swell it stopped hurting."

The upper right first premolar tooth (fourth from front) seemed to be the one involved. Gum tissue around it was bluish red, spongy and swollen. It probably was filled with suppurative matter (pus). The tooth was mobile in all directions, and could even be moved up and down in its socket. The tooth behind it was loose too, but the eyetooth in front was firm and healthy.

X rays disclosed a large irregular shadow that enveloped almost all of the roots of both teeth, first and second premolars.

Mrs. Josephine P. was suffering from a periodontal abscess. It probably began with gum infection and some bone loss around one tooth, developing into a gum pocket or pyorrhea pocket. Then more bone loss and deeper pocket until all the bone around the tooth was infected.

It's possible that if treatment had begun in the early stages, these teeth could have been saved by periodontal treatment, cleaning out the pockets and trimming away the diseased gums. If necessary, root canal therapy could have been done by removing diseased nerves, draining abscess, sterilizing root canals and filling them with gutta percha or silver points.

But it was too late for that. Mrs. P.'s teeth would have to be extracted. She had a slight fever and she "looked sick." Penicillin and warm mouth washes were prescribed. The extractions would have to wait until she was over this red hot infection.

Scrapers Are Versatile

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — Keep a plastic auto windshield scraper in your kitchen drawer. Use it for cleaning flour from the pastry board or for many other kitchen scraping jobs. — JANE

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer will save most women some embarrassment. Many women's dresses have long loops of tape to keep them from slipping from coat hangers. Consequently, when wearing a sleeveless or short sleeved dress, these tapes may show around the neckline or armholes. I saw a hook somewhere in the lining of the dress or in a seam. When the dress is put on, I anchor the loops of tape to the hook. In this way I am sure they will not show and I still have the tape to help hold the dress or its hanger. — HELEN

DEAR POLLY — After polishing my children's white shoes, I let them dry and then go over each shoe with a piece of waxed paper. The wax seems to coat the polish and leaves a nice shine. This also protects my clothes from polish that often smears off. The shoes do not have to be polished as often. — JERRY

GIRLS—I followed the same procedure on a favorite leather purse and it looks wonderful. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — After laundering and ironing tablecloths, mark them with a small piece of paper, pinned on, and on which you have written the size of the cloth. This way you know the size before removing a cloth from the drawer and unfolding it. Just try to fold one back again. This is most convenient when there are others helping to set a table. — HELEN

DEAR POLLY — My grandmother's thoughtfulness saved me hours of time when doing history homework. She kept a scrapbook of great men with sections marked Lincoln, Washington, Roosevelt and so on. Each year she would cut out things that were in the paper about these prominent people at the time of their birthdays, anniversaries and so on. Even things heard on radio were jotted down. She did this for many years. When I was asked to write a school paper about a great man in history, all I had to do was refer to grandmother's book. It would have taken hours to look up this material. — MRS. R. D.

IT WAS IN A PLACE of business that a man commented something about getting old, which he isn't.

Law Day Is Explained By Durley

"Law Day, USA" was set aside by Congress in 1958. James Durley, local attorney, told members of Optimist Club Tuesday noon, at the meeting at Bothwell Hotel.

The day was not set aside for lawyers, or for courts, he explained, but so the American people might affirm justice and law. Men have come to the place where they are making a mockery of law, he said. No nation has ever lost its freedom, he said, that did not first lose its laws.

Law Day is May 1, the day Russia shows its military might, and on this same day this country has set aside a time for the protection of its laws, Durley said.

Durley went on to tell of how many young people today are totally unconcerned about breaking laws and this, he felt, was due to the lack of respect parents show for laws and uphold their own children when laws have been broken. It is important, he said, that respect for the laws be taught to the youth of our nation and that all people feel the responsibility of living within the laws of the land and seeing that justice prevails.

Jury service is a burden, said Durley, but it is something that citizens should feel is their duty when called upon to serve. Juries make a great deal of our laws, he said, for in their hands is conviction or freedom of the persons tried according to the evidence presented.

People today are reluctant, he said, to appear as witnesses in cases. He told of several cases where in other cities witnesses have seen terrible things happen to people and nobody did a thing, such as 38 witnesses who saw a woman stabbed and failed to intervene.

If the people of this country are not more concerned with the laws, respecting them, helping them, and cooperating in whatever manner they can, this country may lose its liberty, Durley said. Daniel Webster said, cited Durley: "God grants liberty to those who love it."

He told of England, a country that feels it must protect its laws, and even when it was being bombed during World War II, the House of Commons kept right on meeting and law and justice were upheld.

It is not only in the criminal cases but civil cases as well, such as automobile accidents, where there is a lack of cooperation. We have to respect the laws, Durley said, and if we don't like them, they can be changed.

The meeting was presided over by President Clinton Black. Lee Deason gave the invocation and Mrs. Lillian Maynard played dinner music.

The speaker was introduced by Tom Delph, program chairman. Optimist Jerry Porter, Marshallville, was a guest.

George Ray, 421 East 15th, and Charlie Pahlow, 1908 South Quincy, were made members of York Cross of Honour in Missouri Priory No. 17 in Columbia April 25. Membership denotes the highest award in the York Rite of Freemasonry.

Ray served as master of Sedalia Lodge 236; high priest of Sedalia Chapter 18; illustrious master of Sedalia Council 42; and commander of Saint Omer Commandery 11. He is also a past patron of Pettis Chapter 279, Order of the Eastern Star, and a former member of Masonic Temple board.

He is a member of the Baptist Church. Ray is manager of Central Missouri Electric Cooperative, first vice president of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce and a member of Sedalia Park Board.

Pahlow qualified for the award by having served as master of Sedalia Lodge 236; high priest of Sedalia Chapter 18; illustrious master of Sedalia Council 42; and commander of Saint Omer Commandery 11. He is patron of Pettis Chapter 279, OES.

Pahlow is employed by Central Missouri Electric Cooperative. The Pahlows are members of Camp Branch Baptist Church.

At the annual convocation of the Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons of the State of Missouri, Columbia, April 27, Pahlow was commissioned a grand representative of the Grand Chapter, RAM, of the State of Indiana.

Consumers Play Dual Roles Today

NEW YORK (AP)—By turns pitied, pampered and praised, the consumer today is at once the darling of the economy and, some say, the victim.

Never before have so many economists looked so hard to find out what the consumer is going to do next with his money. Businessmen spend half a billion dollars a year just to try to learn who's going to buy what and when.

For it's the consumer's choice that dictates what most of the factories of the nation produce. Critics of the system, however, argue that never before has it been so hard for the consumer to make an intelligent choice among competing goods. Sheer abundance creates its own problems. Cheap goods sometimes drive out quality goods. Consumers are bombarded with advertising for competing products. Not everyone has the special, technical knowledge that can permit him to say with assurance he's bought the best value in an appliance or an automobile or a suit.

Many consumers vote and many politicians, well aware of this, launch campaigns on their behalf. In Washington, the Senate Commerce Committee has begun hearings on a "truth in packaging" bill. The National Commission on Food Marketing, established by Congress at the suggestion of President Johnson, is taking testimony on ranks are growing rapidly.

Whether the consumer can or does spend his money intelligently, one thing is certain: Economists at the National Industrial Conference Board estimate that although the population in 1975 will be only 20 per cent bigger, the level of consumption will be 50 per cent bigger.

Every year about a million families move into the $10,000-plus bracket of income. By economists' standards this gives them more than they need for minimum food, clothing and shelter.

Their "discretionary income," the amount spent on non-essentials, increases and this is the spending that has triggered whole new luxury industries, such as boating and high-fidelity radio-phonograph equipment.

And by 1975, says the board, the $10,000-plus group of families probably will grow from 25

District Championship Is Taken By Sedalians, 3-1

S-C Tigers Step Closer To Top Title

By Ronnie Cowan

The Smith-Cotton Tigers captured the district baseball championship Wednesday afternoon with a 3 to 1 victory over the Patriots of Truman High School of Independence, in windy, overcast conditions.

The Tigers only gathered one hit compared to their opponents' five base raps. Randy France gathered the Bengal smack in the fourth inning, driving in the third Tiger run in Butch Rozier, who had reached second on a right-fielder's error.

The Tigers' other two runs came as a result of Patriot errors in the third. Catcher Steve Young began the inning by reaching first on a walk. Confusion then reigned within the Truman defense when pitcher Jim Johnson popped a bunt down the first-base line. The fly was missed and the attempt to force Young out at second sent the baseball rolling into left field. The ball was fumbled by the left-fielder, allowing both Young and Johnson to score.

In all other innings, the Tigers were set down in order.

Jim Johnson, who went the distance for Smith-Cotton, was the winner. He struck out seven, allowed five hits and walked one.

The Patriots lone run came in the third inning after two outs had been made due to a snappy double play pulled off from pitcher, Johnson to shortstop, Johnson to first base and a man France, Twin singles by Marvin Tucker and Rusty Calfas combined to send the first Truman tally home.

The visiting Patriots got their last chance to score two or more in the top of the seventh and sent the left fielder and two pinch-hitters to the plate. Johnson displayed his coolness under pressure by striking out all three with only one ball interspersed among the strikes.

The Tigers will continue their attempts at the state championship tournament next Wednesday afternoon at Liberty Park Stadium when they host the Lebanon contingent. This sectional championship contest begins at 3 p. m.

In the meantime, the Tigers have a conference battle to settle. Currently leading the loop with three wins and a loss, the locals travel to Jefferson City Friday to take on the Jays. The Capital City team is 2-2 in league play as are the Hickman Kewpies. The Mexico Bulldogs make up the cellar with a win and three losses. A split in Friday's twin-bill would assure the Tigers of at least a tie for the CEMO championship provided the Kewpies sweep their Mexico double header.

Tigers Finish Third In CEMO Golf Tourney

Smith-Cotton's Tigers placed third in a Central Missouri Conference golf match at Jefferson City Wednesday, with the Capital City players taking first place with a 3-4. The Bengals ended the day with 337.

Rolla came in second with 317, Mexico was fourth with 338, Columbia fifth at 342 and Hannibal last with a 354.

Medalist for the meet was Jim Nichols of Jefferson City, who shot a 71. Bennie Thomas, Rolla, was runner-up with 76.

Individual scores for Smith-Cotton: Dick Postel, 80; Mike DeLozier, 81; Terry Fieg, 87; and John Owen, 89.

The Tigers, who now own a 6-3 record for the season, next see action against Marshall on the Municipal Golf Course there, Wednesday.

Ex-Yank Whips Old Teammates

By MIKE RATHER Associated Press Sports Writer

Ralph Terry of the Cleveland Indians was so effective in his first start against his former New York Yankee teammates that he struck out one of them with a pitch he doesn't even throw.

Terry, the hero of the 1962 World Series dispatched to Cleveland in the Pedro Ramos trade last season, waited almost seven months for a shot at the Yankees and then spent only an hour and 40 minutes mowing them down on three hits for a 4-0 victory Wednesday night.

Strikeout victim Tom Tresh was one of the Yankees impressed with Terry's performance.

"He sure threw me one pitch I've never seen him use before," said Tresh. "He struck me out with a kind of screwball that came up to me and broke down and out."

"I don't throw a screwball," said Terry. "I throw fastballs, curves, and sliders."

Terry, who had a 7-11 record last year, admitted that he was "happy about winning that one but I wanted to make sure I didn't rub it in."

Nevertheless, it seemed like he did.

Terry pitched effortlessly, using only 70 pitches. He allowed only singles, did not walk a man and did not allow a run—past first base while bringing his record to 4-1 and reducing his earned-run average to an eye-popping 1.66.

The Chicago White Sox, meanwhile, received strong performances from John Buzhardt and Joe Horlen, each pitching a four-hitter in 4-0 and 4-1 triumphs over Detroit. Camilo Pascual checked Baltimore on six hits in Minnesota's 9-2 victory and the Los Angeles Angels downed Boston 6-4.

Washington and Kansas City were not scheduled.

The Indians had lost 10 straight to the Yankees in Cleveland, but quicker than you can say Whitey Ford they had given Terry more working room than he needed.

With two out in the first inning, Leon Wagner homered off Ford. Rocky Colavito singled, Max Alvis walked and Fred Whitfield homered. That eventually left Ford's record at 2-2.

Buzhardt, now 3-0, struck out 11 and allowed only one Tiger to reach third base in the opener while Bill Skowron and Ron Hansen supplied home run support. Skowron also doubled and scored another run while Hansen collected another run batted in with a sacrifice fly.

Horlen was tagged for an inside-the-park homer by Dick Mauter in the sixth inning and went into the seventh trailing 1-0. Then the White Sox struck for four runs.

Skowron's double, in between two walks issued by Dave Wickersham, loaded the bases. Smoky Burgess drove in two runs with a pinch-hit single before reliever Larry Sherry batted home one run and let in another with a wild pitch.

Pascual, bringing his record to 3-0, struck out eight and walked only one while Zoilo Versalles provided the power with four hits and four RBI. Versalles tripled home a run in the second, slapped a two-run single in the third and doubled home another in the seventh.

Bunning Sidetracks '65 Revival

By DICK COUCH Associated Press Sports Writer

Jim Bunning of the Philadelphia Phils, who made his comeback last year, has temporarily sidetracked Warren Spahn's 1965 revival by beating the great southpaw at his own game.

Bunning, whose perfect game last June 21 against the New York Mets helped him capture National League comeback laurels, returned to Shea Stadium Wednesday night and personally outscored the Mets and Spahn 1-0 with an opposite-field home run.

The homer was Bunning's first in the league. Spahn has 36, the all-time record for NL pitchers.

Spahn, determined at 44 years of age to bounce back from his 6-13 season with Milwaukee in 1964, pitched his best game as a Met, matching Bunning's four-hitter. But the pitch that Bunning hit over the right field fence in the sixth inning made Spahn a loser for the second time in four decisions.

Bunning's homer left him seven behind San Francisco's Willie Mays for the year. Mays hit No. 8, high in the majors, in the Giants' 10-5, 10-inning victory at St. Louis. Milwaukee nipped Houston 2-1 in 14 innings, the Los Angeles Dodgers topped Cincinnati 4-2 and the Chicago Cubs defeated Pittsburgh 3-1 in other NL games.

Bunning yielded four singles while improving his current record to 2-3. He retired 20 of 21 Met batters during one stretch and wrapped up the victory by striking out the side in the ninth.

"I hit a high curve ball," he said of the home-run pitch. "Spahn should know better than to throw a high curve to a country boy—or a good-hitting pitcher."

The Giants exploded for five runs in the 10th inning after two errors by second baseman Phil Gagliano on the same play opened the gates. Jim Davenport led off the inning with a double, took third on a ground out and scored the go-ahead run when Gagliano bobbled Ed Bailey's grounder, then threw wildly to the plate.

A bases-loaded triple by Willie McCovey and a run-scoring double by Mays capped the rally. Mays' leadoff homer in the eighth had tied the score 5-5.

Left-hander Wade Blasingame pitched the entire 14 innings for Milwaukee, yielding only five hits and striking out 12, while Eddie Mathews' two-out double in the 14th delivered Mack Jones with the winning run.

Dick Farrell, the Houston starter, was struck on the back of the head by Hank Aaron's line drive in the last of the ninth. He finished the inning but was removed for a pinch hitter in the 10th.

Sedalians Lose In Tennis Play At Jeff City

Sedalia had an other losing day in tennis, taking a sound drubbing from Jefferson City in a tennis tournament there Wednesday.

Singles action saw Rod Robertson drawing a first round bye and then losing the second round to Hannibal's Glahn, 2-6 and 5-7.

Bill Bunn, second man on the Sedalia team, lost his first round encounter to Doug Beck of Jefferson City, 6-0 and 6-1; Doug Dickman dropped his first round encounter with Garrett of Hannibal, 5-7 and 0-6; and Ken Fine, fourth man on the S-C team, lost in the first round to Eric Griffin of Columbia, 3-6, 7-5 and 2-6.

In doubles play, Robertson and Bunn drew a first round bye but lost the second round to Beck and Milsap of Jefferson City, 0-6, 0-6. Dickman and Fine didn't fare any better, losing in the first round to Green and Thoenen of Mexico, 4-6 and 3-6.

Glahn won the singles title in his division, while Beck, Garrett and Griffin placed second in theirs.

Sedalia, with a 3-5 for the season, travels to Marshall next Wednesday for its last tennis encounter.

Way Back When . . .

QUICK REVIEW BRINGS TO light the fact that the American Junior Legion team ousted Missouri Training School of Boonville 5-3 in a nip-and-tuck baseball contest. Jack Coffelt was on the mound and took the victory for the Sedalians.

Then, switching over to track, Mark Twain and Whittier, according to the files of May 6, 1940, tied with 22 5-6 points each in the annual grade school track meet here. Some really promising thinclads were on the cinders that day.

THE SEDALIA MERCHANTS opened their season the day before with a 22-4 rout of the Auxvasse squad here in a game highlighted by a couple of good pitches from Sedalia's Mayor Julian Bagby.

Mayor Bagby whipped two strikes across the plate that day while facing alderman Elmer Summers. There were no political clouds darkening the pitchers mound, either.

In regular action, Paul Evans smacked an inside-the-park home run for the Sedalians, who, incidentally, connected with the ball so many times Auxvasse was stunned almost from the first inning on. It was a good start for the locals, that year.

THE INDIANAPOLIS "500" isn't too far distant for this year's racing season, and in 1940, on this same day, the speculation had already begun.

Ralph DePalma was the racing idol of the 1940's, right from his funny-looking safety helmet down to his sports car. DePalma was freeing himself of some safe comments concerning the 1940 race, and came up with the remarkable prediction (for that day, at least) that the 117,200 mile-per-hour speed record set in 1938 would be broken in 1940.

Just what happened in 1939 the story didn't comment on, but apparently the winning car's speed wasn't anything to brag about.

DePalma, incidentally, won the heart of racing fans when in 1912 he led the "500" field for 495 miles—and then his car broke down. Naturally, he lost the race—but he didn't lose the fans. Remember those days?

Bowling League Ham Dinner Is Planned

The Senior Citizens Bowling League will hold its annual banquet at 12 noon this Friday at Hillcrest Lanes, according to Harry Carson. Ham will be served as the main course.

Carson indicated that the occasion would also be used to present trophies and awards for various achievements in the league, among them prizes for the most improved male and female bowler. About 35 or 40 persons are expected to attend.

Bret Hanover Wins Cane Futurity Pace

Frank Ervin, with Bret Hanover (voted 1964 Harness Horse of the year), marked up their first start of the new racing year with a victory by winning the $25,000 Cane Futurity Pace before 26,171 fans at Yonkers Raceway, Yonkers, N.Y., last Monday night.

Bret Hanover, undefeated in 24 races last year as a two-year-old, was voted the Harness Horse of the year by national sports writers, making him the first two-year-old ever to receive the coveted award.

The predicted duel between Bret Hanover and Adios Vic in that $25,000 classic never did materialize as driver Frank Ervin and Bret took command at the start, relinquished the lead briefly in the first quarter and then coasted to a smashing victory over Adios Vic who finished 1 1/4 lengths back for second place.

Frank and Bret will try for their 26th victory on May 12 on the Yonkers Raceway. One of the favorites in the May 12 race will be Rival Time, who is owned by a syndicate headed by popular Wilt Chamberlain. Another top athlete who gets his thrills from another sport is the recent winner of the Masters Golf Tournament, Jack Nicklaus, who recently purchased a couple of nice trotters. They undoubtedly will be raced in Nicklaus' home state of Ohio, this summer.

Bret Hanover, the son of Adios (also raced and given his record by Frank Ervin) was purchased by Frank for Richard Downing of Shaker Heights, Ohio, at the yearling sale held each fall at Harrisburg, Pa., from the consignment of the Hanover Shoe Farm in November, 1963, for $50,000. He was trained and prepared for his racing debut at Orlando, Fla., by the Ervin Stable.

A freak accident almost ended Bret's career before he ever started in a race. It occurred as he was being warmed up for his first race at Lexington, Ky., under the lights. As trainer Frank Ervin was finishing his last warm up mile Bret became scared when a contingent of pre-race ceremony marchers turned across the track with flags flying and bright uniforms.

Bret bolted over the inside fence of the race track, pinning Ervin against the fence and then falling on him. Bret regained his feet and excitedly started to run off, but stopped part way across center field where he was caught and taken to the barn and checked over for injuries.

Ervin was picked up by ambulance but directed that he be taken to the stables first before being taken to the hospital. Frank received a couple of cracked vertebrae along with scratches and bruises, which grounded him for a few weeks.

Outside of a few scratches, Bret looked like he came out of the accident better than his trainer so Frank decided to start him on his winning career and he won his first race pretty much as he pleased. His trainer and driver had to sit that one out.

Bret won every race he was in after that, 24 in all, and in so doing won $173,298, a record for a two year old, besides giving Frank his third horse of the year.

Ervin is a brother of Colie Ervin, 2103 South Limit, and is well known in Sedalia.

Season Is Starting Too Soon

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ray Sadecki of the St. Louis Cardinals thinks the baseball season starts too soon—or a month too soon.

If the schedule makers could cut out April and early May, Sadecki would be happy. He says he would win the same number of games, and lose a lot less.

Forced to pitch that first month, the 24-year-old left-hander has "compiled a disappointing, but not surprising, 0-3 record."

The Cardinals have grown accustomed to Sadecki's spring fever.

For example, last season he did not win his first game until May 11 and still managed 20 victories.

"I wish I knew what was wrong," his manager, Red Schoendienst, said. "He was throwing good all spring—much better than last spring."

"His arm is okay; he's trying as hard as ever, and he's not over-confident. He's had a couple of good games, but we weren't able to get him any runs."

But runs, or no runs, Sadecki has been no more better. After San Francisco scored four runs in one-third of an inning against him Tuesday night, he had given up 15 runs in 12 2-3 innings.

Sadecki himself is confused. "I'm just in a rut," he said. "I'm throwing the ball well, but I'm not pitching well."

"I just don't know. If I was hurt, or the fast ball wasn't good, . . . but I feel everything's there."

Sadecki has always been something of a problem for the Cardinals since he arrived in the majors in 1960 as a highly-touted bonus boy.

For 2-Day Series

Scoring Edge Is Held By MU

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kansas has a paper-thin edge in defense and pitching but Missouri's defending champions and Big Eight leaders have a big advantage in hitting and scoring, going into their important baseball series Friday and Saturday in Columbia.

Missouri has surged to the top at 8-3 with a five-game winning streak and eight victories in their last nine games. Iowa State is a game back at 7-4, Nebraska 6-4, and Kansas and Oklahoma State tied at 7-5.

Bob Robben, Missouri second baseman, took over the league batting lead at .523 and with a 9-for-15 series against K-State. Missouri also has four other hitters among the top 16, with Jim Pace at .400, Dan Rudanovich .382, Gene Stephenson .379 and Mike Strode .310.

Kansas has only two—defending champ Steve McGreevy at .463 and Dick Ruggles .295.

Missouri leads the league in scoring, 80 runs in 11 games, in team batting with a hefty .320 and team slugging at .531. Kansas is a distant second in slugging at .374, third in hitting with .253 behind OSU's .285 and no better than fifth in runs scored at 46. Iowa State's 61 is second.

Last year Hi Simmons had an outstanding college pitching staff at Missouri, giving up less than one earned run a game. Now the Tigers are fifth in staff ERA at 4.32, behind Iowa State 1.80, Nebraska 3.51, Kansas 3.78 and OSU 4.05, but their tremendous hitting makes up for it.

Giants Hold Edge Over St. Louis

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It took them ten innings, but the San Francisco Giants won the last game of a three-game series Wednesday night in St. Louis, 10-5, for a two-to-one edge over the Cardinals.

St. Louis had a 5-4 lead going into the eighth inning, when Willie Mays tied the score with a leadoff homer—his eighth of the season—off reliever Barney Schultz. The winning pitcher was Frank Linzy, the loser, Ray Washburn.

Jim Davenport started the tenth inning with a leadoff double. He and four other Giants then tallied on two errors by Phil Gagliano, a hit, a double by Mays and a triple by Willie McCovey.

The Cardinals unleashed three homers—two by Bill White and another by Bob Uecker. However, Chuck Haller crashed another for the Giants for a total of five home runs for the game.

Kansas City, idle Wednesday, meets the Angels tonight at Los Angeles. The A's Orlando Pena (0-3) faces Bob May (1-1).

The Cardinals will take a breather today before meeting the Phillies at Philadelphia Friday.

Coach's Widow Is Chaperone

ENCINO, N.M. (AP) — Sam Tenorio is the only Encino High School athlete ever to win a blue ribbon in a prep track meet.

The ribbon and the courage of Edwina Ortega are memorials to 27-year-old Amado Ortega, who was killed in an automobile accident near Encino April 15. Tenorio, a junior, won the discus throw last Saturday in the Bean Valley Conference track and field meet at Albuquerque.

Mrs. Ortega, a 25-year-old mother of two children—Deborah, 4, and Alfred, 3—is the widow of Ortega, who brought track and field to Encino High School three years ago.

She will take Tenorio to Albuquerque Saturday, at her own expense, to compete in the district track meet where she hopes he will qualify as Encino's first competitor in the state track meet May 14-15.

"Coach thought Sam might do pretty well," she said of her husband. "I'm sort of like a chaperone," she said.

Ortega was hired to coach this small central New Mexico ranching community's basketball team. The school, which had 58 students, never had a track team.

Ortega, who decided that the students needed a spring sport, scrounged for equipment. Some of it came from an Albuquerque high school 90 miles away.

Mrs. Ortega told how one student took a long stick and used it to practice pole vaulting. Tenorio pieced together a split javelin to practice.

Ortega had marked a gravel road in front of the school in measurements of 100 and 220 yards for dash practices. The 440 relay team ran on a dirt road around a big empty lot across from the school.

At the Bean Valley meet, Tenorio threw the discus 118-9 to win the school's first track and field blue ribbon.

"I also put Tenorio in the javelin so he wouldn't have to go for only one event," Mrs. Ortega said. "He kept falling down all the time. Sam wasn't used to throwing on grass—we don't have much around here."

"I kept reminding them why they were there—to do their best. But they were a little out of shape. I had said we had to get a trophy to leave in his memory."

Although it's a little shy of the state meet qualifying distance of 125-0, the Class B record of 153-10½ or the state mark of 174-6, that doesn't discourage Mrs. Ortega.

LOSING HER HEAD—Diana Rigg, one of the stars of the British TV series The Avengers, is all tied up in her work in Leicestershire, England. She is about to receive the guillotine treatment from an amusement park locomotive while waiting to be rescued by the show's hero. The show may be new, but the pose is well known to early movie serial fans.

Second Year In Row

Associated Press Among Pulitzer Prize Winners

NEW YORK (AP) — For the second year in a row, The Associated Press, the Wall Street Journal and the Philadelphia Bulletin have been awarded Pulitzer prizes.

Other Pulitzer Prizes announced Monday went to a newspaper crusading for legislative reapportionment, a part-time housewife, a novice Broadway playwright and the publisher of a small-town weekly newspaper.

Horst Faas, an Associated Press combat photographer who says the only way to get to the heart of the story is to be close to the action, won a Pulitzer Prize for news photography for his dramatic and sensitive pictures of the war in Viet Nam.

Faas' award marked the 20th Pulitzer Prize received by The Associated Press in the news or photography categories.

Louis M. Kohlmeier, 39, of the Wall Street Journal's Washington bureau, was cited in the category of national reporting for his enterprise and thorough research on the growth of the fortune of President Johnson and his family. The story took three months of research in Washington, New York and Texas and ran 6,600 words.

J. A. Livingston, 60, veteran financial editor of the Philadelphia Bulletin, won the award in international reporting for his series of articles describing the economic defection of the Soviet Union's eastern European satellites. Entitled "The Powerful Pull of the Dollar," the series was described by Walter W. Heller, former chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, as "politico-economic journalism at its best."

The Pulitzer Prize gold medal for meritorious public service was given to the Hutchinson (Kan.) News, a daily with a circulation of 52,500, for its successful four-year crusade to force equitable legislative reapportionment in Kansas despite powerful local opposition. The newspaper won a suit in the state courts forcing the Kansas Senate to be apportioned on a population basis.

Shirley Ann Grau, 35, a housewife who began her literary career 10 years ago with a collection of short stories called "The Black Prince," received the fiction award for her third novel, "The Keepers of the House," a story of racial tension in a small Southern town.

For the second straight year, music was bypassed. The first prize for drama awarded in three years went to Frank D. Gilroy for "The Subject Was Roses," his first Broadway play which had been turned down by 15 producers.

Melvin H. Ruder, 50, publisher, editor, reporter and photographer for the weekly Hungry Horse News at Columbia Falls, Mont., (pop. 2,132) won the general local reporting award for his outstanding coverage of a disastrous flood last June.

Gene Goltz, 35, investigative reporter for the Houston (Tex.) Post, was given the special local 1956, cabled from Frankfurt, Germany, while en route back to Saigon from New York.

"The award is one that could be shared by all Associated Press men who go out and risk their lives to cover the news where it happens.

"Those of us in Viet Nam regard our task not only to cover the day-to-day developments, but to give the public all over the world a word and picture feel of the tragic situation there."

Malcolm Browne, chief of The Associated Press bureau in Saigon, shared a Pulitzer Prize a year ago with David Halberstam of the New York Times, for coverage of the Viet Nam war.

Last year, the Wall Street Journal won the local general reporting award while the Philadelphia Bulletin won the local special reporting award.

CRASH KILLS TWO — At least ten freight cars went up in flames and two persons were killed Monday night when a Chicago and Northwestern railway freight train smashed into a semitrailer truck at Valley Junction, Wis. Firemen from six communities fought the fire. Over forty cars were derailed in the 109-car train. The two persons killed were in the truck. (UPI Telephoto)

Hitler Given Full Power

EDITOR'S NOTE — The following, second of four articles on the rise and fall of Hitlerite Germany, tells of Der Fuehrer's assumption of dictatorial power.

By LOYAL GOULD
BERLIN (AP) — Shortly after he gained power in 1933, Adolf Hitler and his fellow Nazis began looking for an excuse that would give them an unfettered hand in shaping the destinies of Germany and eventually the world. They found their chance for complete power over Germany in less than a month. On Feb. 27, the Parliament building in Berlin, the Reichstag, burned down.

Historians still argue whether Communists or some of Hitler's close followers planned the blaze. Hitler blamed it on the Reds and demanded absolute power to fight social unrest. Parliament passed a law giving all its powers to Hitler personally.

With no more parliamentary restraints, the Nazis announced a national boycott of Jewish shops, excluded Jews from public office, journalism, farming and the theater.

The Nuernberg laws finally deprived Jews of German citizenship, forbade marriage between Jews and gentiles, and even prohibited male Jews from employing female gentle servants under 35.

With his opponents pushed aside, Hitler turned his attention to foreign relations.

Since the Reich was diplomatically isolated and militarily weak, he made a series of "peace speeches" insisting that he would never resort to force to achieve his foreign policy goals.

But four months later, he announced that Germany was withdrawing from the international disarmament conference and from the League of Nations. Hitler gave secret orders to start rebuilding the German armed forces. He called off the Versailles reparations payments to create the first of many international crises. Others followed over a three-year period until Germany occupied the demilitarized left bank of the Rhine in 1936.

But while he was professing a desire for peace, Hitler sent tanks, planes and men to be tested in the services of Gen. Francisco Franco, the Spanish Fascist who revolted against the Republican government in Madrid.

In that same year, 1936, Hitler signed the so-called Axis pact with Benito Mussolini, aligning Germany and Italy, and the anti-Comintern pact aligning Germany with Japan.

Shortly after the 1936 Olympics, Hitler ordered secretly organized Nazis in the country of his birth, Austria, to start a series of bombings and violent demonstrations to weaken the government of Chancellor Kurt von Schuschnigg.

By 1938, the groundwork had been so well-prepared that the German army marched into Austria without firing a shot and without fear of foreign countermeasures.

When he arrived in Vienna, thousands of Austrians lined up to greet him with shouts of "Heil Hitler!" He told them that Austria was just the beginning.

He said he intended to achieve the union of all Germans in a greater Germany and mentioned specifically the Sudetenland in Czechoslovakia with its three million Germans.

With the help of Mussolini, Hitler threatened war and frightened British and French leaders into supporting his annexation of the Sudetenland. Their surrender came at a four-power summit conference in Munich. The Czechs were not allowed to take part.

On his return to London from Munich, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain said he had brought back "peace with honor" and expressed his conviction that there would be "peace in our time."

There was peace for a while — even though German troops marched into Prague the following year on trumpeted grounds of maintaining peace and order. The Western Allies failed to come to the aid of the country they had formed on the basis of President Woodrow Wilson's 14 points after World War I.

A Newsmen Reports

Broadcasting Room Keeps Chinese Travelers Awake

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is one of a series of dispatches from China filed to the Southam newspapers of Canada by the chief of the Southam News Services.

By CHARLES LYNCH

SHENYANG (Mukden), Manchuria (AP) — The trains in China run smoothly, but boy, are they noisy.

Sublime peace would reign on the rails, if they would just get rid of the infernal squawk box.

We were riding the overnight Peking-Shenyang Express, in the "soft seats", which means a bedroom of Oriental luxury, almost decadent in its splendor.

I had arrived early to get a look at the Peking railroad station, which is on a par with the U.N. buildings in New York. We were no sooner settled in our stateroom than the box on the wall blared forth, announcing that the broadcasting room of the train was beginning its work.

"Welcome, passengers," said a girlish voice with that rasping assurance that girlish voices tend to have in today's China. "Let us all work together during our trip. We of the crew want your suggestions and your criticism."

A bit of martial music as the train pulled out, and shortly afterward my interpreter, An, and I were served tea.

The broadcasting room interrupted this reverie with six regulations — of which I caught only three: don't litter the cars, don't spit, and don't let your children urinate on the floor. A spurt of music, and then: "Don't break things on the train."

We were rolling through expansive farmlands and I remarked to An that there were few people in sight.

"Most of China is sparsely settled," he said, and laughed when I told him that many North Americans believe the Chinese are so thick they have to sleep standing up.

The box clicked on to list a few things that the broadcasting room felt needed passengers' attention. Everybody should get on and off the train in good order. Wait until the train stops before getting off. At way stations, listen for the bell that means the train is leaving. Smokers put matches and butts in the ashtrays to prevent burning up the train. Mothers take good care of children and keep them off the tables.

Then, the news — 15 minutes of it.

One more cross-talk record, this one about people who hog the telephone booth, and then the crashing chords of the Internationale, and the blessed news that the broadcast room was closing down for the night.

Exhausted, I expired — only to be roused at 6:10 a.m. by the resumption of the broadcast day. I cast a bleary eye at An in the opposite bunk and asked what song they were playing.

"A very popular song of the day," he said.

"What's it about?" I asked, always interested in contemporary themes.

"Pig breeding," said An matter of factly.

Will Study Topless Bathing Suits

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Assemblymen, told that shows featuring young ladies in topless or bottomless bathing suits are a menace to morals, have decided to study the subject.

On split voice votes, the Assembly Criminal Procedure Committee Tuesday night killed three bills aimed at prohibiting the spreading California topless bathing suit shows.

Sedalia Couple 'Adopts' Boy In Mission Program

A ten-year-old boy from Burma was recently "adopted" by Dr. and Mrs. Robert Lisenhardt, Southern Hills, Sedalia. The new son is Shepa Adriano whom the Lisenhardts are helping through the Foster Parents Mission Club of Detroit, Michigan — a group dedicated to aiding overseas orphans and poor children in India, Burma, and East Pakistan.

The Lisenhardts have six children of their own.

"Shepa will not leave Burma," stated the FPMC President, "but the aid he receives and the knowledge that someone is really interested in him will truly make him feel he is a member of the Lisenhardt family."

The children are under the care of the PIME Missionaries. To date more than 2,500 children have been "adopted" and are being cared for. There are 4,000 more who are starving or will starve if they are not also adopted.

Revolution Planned By Cuba, Nixon Says

NEW YORK (AP) — Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro plans a Communist infiltration of Colombia to spark a revolution there, says former Vice President Richard M. Nixon. "According to reports I have, Colombia is the most vulnerable and is next on the list," Nixon told newsmen Tuesday night.

Congregation Honors The Rev. And Mrs. Likely

The Rev. and Mrs. Charles Likely and family were honored April 25 at dinner at Green Ridge Presbyterian Church by approximately 150 members of the church and guests.

The Rev. Mr. Likely has accepted the pastorate of Steelville Presbyterian Church, and is to assume the pastorate May 1. He and his family have moved to Steelville. Three of the couple's children, David, Joan and Leslie, were Green Ridge school students. Dianna Lynn plans to finish the term of work at Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg, where she is a sophomore. She will work this summer in Monett Regional Library.

In addition to the Steelville pastorate, Mr. Likely will serve as Trinity Cooperative Parish coordinator. That group ministry covers much of a three county area in Crawford, Gasconade and Franklin counties, with churches located at Steelville, Sullivan, Cuba, Owensville, Bay and several open country churches.

Mr. Likely served as Green Ridge Presbyterian Church pastor since June 1958.

Ray Lemke introduced L. B. Beach, who told many things accomplished by the church during Mr. Likely's tenure.

Mrs. Floyd Egbert spoke in appreciation of Mr. Likely's support of junior and senior choirs. Mrs. Nannie E. Sims spoke about her work as clerk of the session.

In behalf of United Presbyterian Women's Association, Mrs. Loy Smith thanked Mr. Likely for monthly study sessions for circle Bible lesson leaders. Mrs. Smith presented a gift of tableware from UPW. A gift of money from the church was hidden in the sugar bowl for the couple to discover.

Notes 50th Anniversary Of Sinking of Lusitania

NEW YORK (AP)—The talk of the town that drizzly Saturday morning, May 1, 1915, was a singular notice that appeared among the shipping news in most of New York's newspapers. It was signed by the Imperial German Embassy.

"Notice: "Travelers intending to embark on the Atlantic voyage are reminded that a state of war exists between Germany and her allies and Great Britain and her allies, that the zone of war includes the waters adjacent to the British Isles; that in accordance with final notice given by the Imperial German Government vessels flying the flag of Great Britain, or of any of her allies, are liable to destruction in those waters and that travelers sailing in the war zone on ships of Great Britain or her allies do so at their own risk."

Understandably, the notice was a particularly hot topic that morning on Pier 54 at the foot of West 13th Street where 1,959 travelers were about to embark on the New York to Liverpool voyage on a vessel that flew the British flag.

Her name, Lusitania. "Fastest and largest steamer now in Atlantic service," the Cunard Line called its ocean monarch. She was 32,000 tons; nine decks tall; 790 feet long. Even with six of her 25 boilers shut down as a wartime economy measure, she could do 21 knots, much faster than those new terrors of the seas, the submarines, or the U-boats, as the Germans called them.

Few Oppose US Actions In Caribbean

WASHINGTON (AP)—Both in the Organization of American States and in the United Nations there are a few countries which say the United States' action in sending troops into the Dominican Republic was not in harmony with proclaimed ideals of the charters of the two international organizations.

And there are others which take the opposite view. It is yet to be decided, on the basis of votes, whether either international agency will condemn the U.S. stand.

The charters of both the OAS and the U.N. speak out against the sending of military forces into another country, but both also proclaim the right of any nation to defend its interests and security.

There is also the implicit obligation of nations to protect the lives of their citizens.

The OAS Charter is perhaps more emphatic in its stand against intervention than is the U.N. Charter, because many Latin-American nations have at times been the object of intervention.

Mexico is one of the most emphatic in declaring its devotion to the theory of nonintervention. Yet Fidel Castro, known for many months to be organizing an expedition to overthrow the government of Cuban dictator Fulgencio Batista, received Mexico's hospitality, the financial and moral support of many Mexicans, and use of a training ground for his forces which invaded Cuba.

And the Soviet Union, now a critic of U.S. policy in the Dominican Republic, rushed troops, tanks and other equipment into Hungary in 1956 to put down a revolt there. The Soviets sought to justify this by saying had people were conducting the revolution.

President Johnson says there was no time to talk, to consult, before taking action in the Dominican case—but that the OAS was informed immediately and that it was not intervention, but a humanitarian mission.

If the warning notice had frightened any of the Lusitania's 1,257 passengers and 702 crewmen, it didn't show.

At 12:20 p.m. while the ship's hand blared "Tipperary" and Elbert Hubbard, author of the inspirational "Message to Garcia," waved gaily from the boat deck, the Lusitania put to sea.

She was scheduled to be in Liverpool next Saturday, May 8.

Only the day before, across 3,500 miles of ocean, another ship—but much smaller—had put to sea from the port of Emden, Germany. Hers was a quiet, lonely departure. The German navy called her "Unterseeboot 20," or simply U20. She was a submarine skippered by Kapitänleutnant Walter Schwieger, just turned 32 and starting his first command.

Not until the evening of May 6, as she neared the coast of Ireland, was Lusitania reminded that there was a war.

The message came from Queenstown, Ireland, at eight bells: "Submarines active off the south coast of Ireland." Lusitania would pass Fastnet, a rocky islet off the south coast of Ireland, in the morning.

One of the most active submarines in the area was U20. Kapitänleutnant Schwieger was enjoying good hunting. That very day, U20 had bagged two 6,000-ton steamers. And U20 had fuel left for at least one more day of hunting.

At dawn, Friday, May 7, Lusitania's passengers could smell land. The coast of Ireland hung low on the horizon, hidden in a light fog.

About noon Friday, U20 was surfaced off a 256-foot Irish landmark called Old Head of Kinsale. Kapitänleutnant Schwieger scanned the horizon with his binoculars. At first, he thought he saw two destroyers. Then he saw it was a ship with four funnels. Excitedly, he gave the order and U20 slipped to periscope depth.

The fog cleared and the sun came out. The sea was glassy calm. Houses were visible among the green hills of Ireland. Most of the passengers were below dining on roast beef and Yorkshire pudding when Capt. William Thomas Turner sighted Old Head of Kinsale off the port bow. He ordered a slight change in course to take a bearing on the landmark.

The slight change was precisely what Kapitänleutnant Schwieger wanted. It gave him a clean bow shot at the liner less than 1,000 yards away.

The torpedo from U20 struck Lusitania on her starboard side between the third and fourth funnels. It exploded in the boiler rooms of the great ship. A second blast, either a boiler or coal dust, followed the first. Lusitania listed to starboard. Her bow dipped to meet the sea.

In the dining salon below decks, passengers dropped their forks and fled. Stewards dropped dishes and ran for life jackets.

Capt. Turner ordered the helm thrown hard to port for a run at the Irish coast. Lusitania failed to respond.

Kapitänleutnant Schwieger, watching through his periscope, noted: "It seems as if the vessel will be afloat only a short time. Submerge to 24 meters and go to sea. I could not have fired a second torpedo into this throng of humanity attempting to save themselves."

Aboard the Lusitania the order was given to abandon ship. The port lifeboats were useless. The starboard list held them fast to the side of the ship. The starboard boats fared only a little better.

At 2:30 p.m., only 22 minutes after the torpedo struck, the stern of Lusitania lifted high in the air and, propellers still churning slowly, she plunged bow first to the bottom, her suction dragging many desperate swimmers down with her.

In all 1,198 of the 1,959 passengers and crewmen died—and 124 of them were Americans, a fact that was to embarrass the protest note condemning Ger-over it. And, slightly less than Imperial German Government many's unrestricted submarine two years later, an aroused and indirectly cause its down-warfare was worded so strongly America went to war with the that his secretary of state, Wil-battle cry "Remember the Lus-President Woodrow Wilson's liam Jennings Bryna, resigned tania!"

A Misplaced Coat Has Money Lining

BOSTON (AP)—An elderly Lowell woman became upset at the Essex subway station when she realized she had misplaced her coat.

Natalie Coelho, in her 70s, enlisted the help of train starter Henry McCusker who returned with her Tuesday to the Dover station where she had boarded the train.

They found the coat draped over a turnstile. Mrs. Coelho quickly ascertained that $2,980 in bills was still securely sewn in the lining.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has set up a plan to speed income tax refunds to military personnel who served in Viet Nam during 1964.

Thousands of servicemen paid taxes on military pay which Johnson recently ruled was at least partially tax exempt.

The White House has announced that taxpayers who served in Viet Nam in 1964 and have already filed returns may claim refunds by submitting amended returns for refund claims.

To speed processing of the refunds, amended returns should be marked at the top of the form: "Amended — Combat Zone."

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new American fighter—the YF-12A—streaked through the sky Saturday, and President Johnson said it set two world speed records.

The previous bests, he said, had been set by a Soviet D-166 jet.

The President said the YF-12A exceeded 2,000 miles per hour on a straight course, and hit 1,688 miles an hour on a closed course (round trip).

The records were set on two flights made by different crews at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A task force sponsored by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce has questioned some aspects of the federal anti-poverty program.

The group, headed by Erwin D. Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor, said it questions whether large-scale economic development programs can provide the aid needed to help people move out of poverty.

It cited specifically the billion-dollar Appalachia program which provides a major road-building program for parts of 11 states.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas is no longer the nation's biggest state, but its roads and highways have the most junkyards. The figure according to a Commerce Department survey: 1,602.

Runnerup Georgia has 1,055 and Alaska, the biggest state, has 57.

The survey was released by the White House Saturday, and was taken after President Johnson, a Texan, declared: "I want to make sure that the America we see from these major highways is a beautiful America."

First Communicants Served At St. Pat's

Father Charles Pfeiffer, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, administered the sacrament of the Holy Eucharist at 8 a.m. Mass Sunday at the church to the following first communicants, who were accompanied by their families: Deborah Bingham, Nancy Boss, Clifford Cech, Sheila Coffman, Edward Dennis, Gregory Dieckhaus, Joseph Fischer, Joseph Herman, John Hunnius, Sheila Karigan, John Kempf, Jeffrey Koetting, Charles Victor Kays, David Mann, Regina Mann, Steven Moon, Erin Reardon, James Schwalie, Timothy Summers, Nancy Seifner, Sheila Summers, Patricia Thomas, Susan Twenter, Anthony Wagner, Anthony Ward, and Jeffrey White.

Pupils of St. Patrick's had the annual May Crowning with special recognition to the eighth grade graduates, at 7:30 p.m., May 2.

Carriage Trade Is Paying Off

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Hernando Williams De Vos Courtwright, this town's luxury innkeeper, is bucking a trend in U.S. hotel operations — and making a success of it.

While many famous old hotels are being absorbed by large chain operations, Courtwright has twice demonstrated how to remain independent.

In the process, he's made two hotels — first the Beverly Hills and now the Beverly Wilshire — havens for such varied guests as Elizabeth Taylor and corporation presidents.

He's made the hotels a social hub of Beverly Hills and surrounding Los Angeles through hard-driving skill.

"We sacrifice conventions for the carriage trade," is how Courtwright puts it.

"We personalize service—our guests have the money to pay for it and to expect it."

A world traveler and renowned gourmet, Courtwright's name and photograph appear as often in the society columns as do those of his noted guests.

The Chevaliers du Tastevin, one of the numerous gourmet societies to which he belongs, meets regularly at the Beverly Wilshire. Among the members: Art Linkletter and Walt Disney.

"When people read about other noted people having their social events at the hotel, they want to come there, too," says an aide.

Courtwright drew the carriage trade away from the Beverly Hills when he took over the Beverly Wilshire in 1934. He's brought much of it back since he took over the Beverly Wilshire in October 1961.

The Beverly Wilshire was trailing the average Los Angeles hotel occupancy rate by 5 per cent when he took over; now it's 10 per cent ahead. The banquet and bar and restaurant business have doubled.

A $6-million, 250-room expansion is planned for the fall at the Beverly Wilshire. He put through a similar expansion at the Beverly Hills during his regime.

"The Beverly Hills was a bankrupt white elephant for old ladies when he took it over," recalls Courtwright. "We made it into a successful resort hotel."

"Times have changed — and so has Los Angeles — and the Beverly Wilshire has become more a sanctuary for busy people."

Los Angeles is no longer a resort. Today it's a cultural hub — with the new music center and art museum — and a business center.

Yet the people who come here like to get away from the brasserie of commercialism they see around them.

"We run the hotel European style. The employees know the new guests' names, can speak their languages."

The lobby is kept small, to keep out gawkers. We have phone extensions in the bath rooms and we polish our guests' shoes when they leave them out side the door."

Mrs. M. Walker Heads PTA of Mark Twain

Mark Twain PTA officers were installed April 22 by Jack Delph, principal. Officers are: Mrs. Morris Walker, president; Mrs. Dennis Onwiler, first vice president; Mrs. Russell Vinson, second vice president; Mr. Gerald Volpp, third vice president; Mrs. Beulah Lowe, fourth vice president; Mrs. J. W. Hayden, treasurer; Mrs. Fred Keane, recording secretary; Mrs. Albert Anderson, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. John Gross, historian.

Devotional was given by Evelyn Rabourn and Mrs. Beulah Lowe gave the historian's report.

Serving on the auditing committee are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Keane and Mr. and Mrs. Claude Lambirth.

Mark Twain orchestra played several numbers directed by Robert Cummings. A special number was played by Barbara Schrader, violin; Kathy Schrader, cello; and Jan Hoffman, piano.

Delph announced events that will close the school year and presented Mrs. Walker with a gift from members.

Will Limit Sound

LONDON (AP) — Britain's transport minister announced plans today to muffle the nation's motorcycles, scooters, automobiles and trucks.

Minister Tom Fraser said motor vehicles will be limited to 65 decibels before the end of the year.

The minister said vehicles exceeding the decibel limit will be ordered off the streets and roads.

Mrs. Jennie Breen

Linda Marie Gault is Bride Of Jennie Breen on April 9th

Miss Linda Marie Gault, Gaults were attended by Miss daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Patty Glennon and Miss Jennie Gault, 2601 West Broadway, Craig and the guest book was became the bride of Mr. Jennie Breen, son of Mr. and Mrs. man, Kansas City, cousin of the Frank Brown, LaMonte, at eight o'clock Friday evening, April 9 at First Christian Church.

The Rev. Harry Purviance, pastor, read the double ring ceremony at the altar, which was centered with a large arrangement of yellow gladioli and chrysanthemums. Candelabra and arrangements of yellow gladioli and chrysanthemums were at the sides of the altar.

Mrs. C. C. DeLozier, organist, played "Bridal March" by Wagner. "Calm as the Night," "Nocturne in E Flat," Chopin; "O Perfect Love," Barbery; "I Love Thee," Grieg; "Prelude," Fitch; "Berceuse," Goddard; "Bells at Evening," Chauvet; "Recessional," "Now Thank We, All Our God," Cruger.

Soloist, Miss Diana Gray, accompanied by Mrs. DeLozier, sang "One Heart, One Hand" and "O Promise Me." As the couple knelt at the prayer bench, Miss Gray sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Tapers were lighted by Mr. Gary Harrison and Mr. Dennis Breen, LaMonte, the latter the brother of the bridegroom. They also served as ushers.

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a chalk white wedding gown of veiled silk organza. Styled with long tapering sleeves and a Sabrina neckline, the modish bodice was highlighted with garlands of Chantilly lace, which framed the neck and extended on each side down the color and onto the bell shaped skirt front. At the sides and back, impressed pleats added fullness, curving and lengthening to a chapel train. The center back waist was held by a butterfly bow centered with fabric roses with long floating streamers. A miniature petal cap of silk held her elbow length veil of imported illusion. Her flowers were white roses, Stephanotis and Cymbidium orchids.

Maid of honor was Miss Jeanne Madden, who wore a street length dress of gold brocade with satin. She carried white carnations mixed with baby's breath. Her veil was held in place by a gold cabbage rose.

Bridesmaid was Mrs. Jerry Palmer. She was attired in a dress like that of the bride attendant and carried similar flowers.

Mr. Dale Wasson, LaMonte, served as best man and groomsmen was Mr. Bob Thompson, LaMonte.

Both mothers selected dresses of navy, with navy accessories. The corsages were of white carnations.

Following the ceremony, 150 guests were received by the wedding party in the church's fellowship hall. White nylon net over yellow satin, covered the bridal table and was caught up at the corners with yellow bows. Two silver candelabras, holding lighted yellow tapers, stood at the sides of the table. A miniature bride and bridegroom were placed on the highest tier. The traditionally decorated white wedding cake.

Mrs. Larry Schouten, LaMonte, served cake. Punch was served by Mrs. Don Thiele, Mrs. R. R. R. and Miss Jo Ann Steele, Jim Elkins, Kansas City, cousin of the bride, acted as hostess, and visiting.

The couple is at home at Weddars' Court.

The bride is to be graduated this spring from Smith-Cotton High School. The bridegroom was graduated from LaMonte High School in 1962, attended Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg, and is engaged in farming in LaMonte.

Mrs. Loveland Installed By Xi Beta Women

Mrs. Barbara Loveland was installed president of Xi Beta Upsilon Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, April 19 at the home of Mrs. Barbara Eberling, 2300 Wing.

Other officers, installed by Mrs. Dorothy Nichols, retiring president, were: Mrs. Barbara Arnold, vice president; Mrs. Mary Alice Flores, recording secretary; Mrs. Dorothy Huffman, historian; Mrs. Dorolyn Huffman and Mrs. Nicholas, and a Sabrina neckline, the modish bodice was highlighted with garlands of Chantilly lace, which framed the neck and extended on each side down the color and onto the bell shaped skirt front. At the sides and back, impressed pleats added fullness, curving and lengthening to a chapel train. The center back waist was held by a butterfly bow centered with fabric roses with long floating streamers. A miniature petal cap of silk held her elbow length veil of imported illusion. Johnson Puts His Policies Into Words

WASHINGTON (AP) — An outpouring of presidential statements on foreign policy on a scale that may be unprecedented has come out of the White House in the last eight days — three of them on live national television, and radio.

The procession of statements began at a news conference in the White House East Room a week ago Tuesday. Since then, President Johnson hasn't missed a day except for a single gap last Thursday.

Apparently he is determined to try to drill home to the people and the world his reason for his actions in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic because he feels they aren't sufficiently understood.

The President put this into words Tuesday when he talked to more than 150 members of the Senate and House in the White House East Room. His major pronouncement was that he wanted $700 million for expanding expenses of U.S. operations in Viet Nam.

Then, in a lengthy discussion of the Dominican situation, he remarked:

"We have sent able emissaries to explain all that I have said to you to other countries because a man's judgment is no better than his information and there hasn't been full information on this subject."

At the April 27 news conference, one of the few he has set up well in advance, Johnson said that "to stand firm is the only guarantee of lasting peace" and he reaffirmed his offer of unconditional discussion in an attempt to bring about peace in Viet Nam.

The next night the President suddenly was back on the air and television screens. He announced that he had ordered American troops ashore in the Dominican Republic to protect American lives.

Two nights later, last Friday, there was another hurriedly arranged television appearance that produced word that a cease-fire was not being fully respected and that there were signs that "people trained outside the Dominican Republic are seeking to gain control."

The following day, there were two presidential statements. One announced that more troops were being sent into the Dominican Republic; the other coupled an appeal for an end to violence with an expression of hope for success of an Organization of American States peace mission.

Again Sunday night, late, the President resorted to radio and television, and declared that a "band of Communist conspirators" had seized control of what started out to be a popular democratic revolution in the Dominican Republic.

Monday, Johnson talked to a building trades conference of the AFL-CIO and was applauded for a pronouncement that "we don't propose to sit here in our rocking chair with our hands folded and let the Communists set up any government in the Western Hemisphere."

Tuesday night during a walking news conference — his fifth in six days, the President was asked about U.S. intervention in the Dominican Republic.

He said: "We really oughtn't to be prosecuted for this, fellas, at all. We acted in the interest of this country and all humanity."

Later, in a speech to Texas rural electric cooperative officials, he said "we are not about to flag or to fail" in the promise to help South Viet Nam preserve its freedom. He said "we gave them our word and our commitment and we keep it."

Campus Pastor Talks To Class At Green Ridge

Senior class of Green Ridge High School and its sponsor, Jack Chambers, principal, were guests of honor at a contributive dinner at Green Ridge Presbyterian Church, April 20. The Rev. David Johnson, campus pastor at Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg, spoke.

Folk music was played and sung by Dr. Judd McAlevy, John Clark, Penny Ellis and Carolyn and David Johnson.

Martha and Esther circles served dinner to approximately 100 class members and guests.

The seniors' table was centered with an arrangement of red roses, the class flower. Other tables were decorated with arrangements of spring flowers and potted lilies.

Superintendent of Schools and Mrs. Virgil Oglevie and the Rev. and Mrs. Charles D. Likely were seated with honor guests.

A program was presented after dinner. Mr. Likely gave a short talk and presented Charles Elliott, vice president, who introduced class members and Chambers.
